DEVELOPMENTS IN THE SHOP STRIKE SHOW LITTLE SIGN OF EARLY PEACE

A Counter Injunction
Washington, D. C. Sept. 9.—A temporary restraining order preventing local Federal authorities from going beyond the scope of the Daugherty strike injunction was issued by Judge Bailey in Equity Court here today on motion of the International Brotherhood Electrical Workers. The special injunction will restrain United States Marshals from interfering with meetings of the organization in this district unless they are shown to thwart interstate commerce.

A. F. L. In Session
Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 9.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor convened here today to decide what action they would take with regard to the Daugherty injunction against the shopmen's strike. Council members were in an exceedingly bitter mood as they went into session. They made it plain that every effort would be exerted to nullify the injunction. A bitter attack was made on President Harding. Attorney General Daugherty and Judge Wilkerson. Their participation in the injunction proceedings were called a breach of the law, a violation of the constitution and a concession to finance.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, met a few western rail executives in conference in the Chicago Club yesterday afternoon, presumably to discuss proposals for a basis of settlement of the shopmen's strike on certain roads by individual agreements.

So far as learned, only a few of the Western roads had planned to send representatives. H. E. Byram, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, was known to be at the meeting. Both he and Willard earlier had refused to discuss the conference and its subject matter, although Byram had said his car would discuss separate agreements if a satisfactory settlement basis could be found.

The conference broke up shortly before 3 o'clock with no announcement of what had been discussed or whether anything had been accomplished.

Willard's Plan
The plan Willard is said to have proposed for individual agreements for settlement of the strike, so far as outlined, does not mention seniority rights, the Chicago "Daily News" said today. According to this published story the seniority question would be compromised, although full seniority would not be restored.

The outline of the Willard proposal as given by the "Daily News" follows:

"All men to return to work in position of the class they originally held on June 30, 1922, and at the same point, and as many of such men as possible are to be put to work Sept. 1, at present rate of pay, and all employees who have been on strike or under pay not later than October 1 next, except such men as have been guilty of proven acts of violence.

Question of Dispute
"The relative standing, as between themselves, of men returning to work and men laid off, furloughed or on leave of absence, including general chairmen and others, who were as for June 30, 1922, properly on leave of absence, will be restored as of June 30, 1922, and they will be called back to work in that order as defined above.

"If a dispute arises as to the relative standing of an employee or employees, or if an controversy arises growing out of the strike that cannot be otherwise adjusted by the carrier and said employee or employees, the matter shall be referred by the organization parties to this agreement, the employees or the carrier in the interest of any employee who may be aggrieved to a commission to be established and constituted as hereinafter provided, for final decision by a majority vote.

The commission referred to shall be composed of the five chief officers of the train service brotherhoods and five railroad officers experienced in matters of this kind and selected from the railroads agreeing hereto. This commission shall be constituted forthwith on the signing of the agreement and have jurisdiction to decide all cases that may be referred to it on (Continued on Page 2).

Chemist, After Making Tests, Says Men Entombed In Gold Mine Are Still Alive

JACKSON, California, September 9.—The forty-seven men entombed in the Argonaut Gold Mine here are still alive, Dr. L. M. Duschak, Consulting Chemical Engineer of the industrial accident commission, announced early today. He based his announcement on chemical tests made for putrefaction at the 2,400 foot level in the Argonaut shaft. He found no signs of putrefaction and declared that if any of the men were dead his tests could not fail to show it. Jackson went wild when this news was announced. The wives of the missing men rushed to the shaft and urged on the rescue crews. The mine officials have offered a reward of $5,000 to the crew which will be first to break through into the chamber where the men are supposed to be confined.

Asks Blood Test

Professor John P. Tiernan, of Notre Dame University, South Bend, Ind., has started suit against John Poulin, a merchant, charging Poulin is the father of a child born to Tiernan's wife. A blood test to determine parentage may figure in the case. Top to bottom: Mrs. Tiernan, Tiernan, the baby.

TURKISH CAVALRY PENETRATES THE SMYRNA ENVIRONS

Athens, Greece, Sept. 9.—Turkish cavalry penetrated the environs of Smyrna today and the Allies' consuls have assumed control of that city as the Greek authorities are preparing to flee. Marines of the United States, Italy and Great Britain have been landed to preserve order and seize the consulates of these nations. American destroyers, as well as British and Italian aircraft, are in the harbor. The streets are swarming with refugees and 100,000 homeless natives are concentrated in the ports of Asia minor. Greek troops have been driven back by the fury of the Turk attack and are being embarked hurriedly from Smyrna.

MUCH NEEDED RAIN FALLS IN WESTERN CORN-WHEAT BELT

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 9.—A million-dollar rain fell over the entire grain belt today, relieving a drought of long duration. A soaking rainfall from the extreme southwest to the northwest brought moisture which was badly needed for late corn and to allow the farmer to prepare their ground for winter wheat. Fear had been expressed that the condition of the ground would cause considerable curtailment of acreage to be planted to wheat.

MRS. HARDING, WIFE OF PRESIDENT, IS CRITICALLY ILL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—Mrs. Harding passed a fairly good night and her condition is as favorable as can be expected at this time, an official bulletin from the White House stated today. The statement said:

"9 A. M. Mrs. Harding had a fairly good night. The complication of yesterday are less prevalent this morning. On the whole her condition is as favorable as can be expected at this time.—Sawyer."

This announcement was accompanied by an order closing the White House grounds to visitors and the cancellation of President Harding's engagements for the day. Four physicians and a nurse remained at Mrs. Harding's bedside until after 3 a. m. today. One of the physicians will be in constant attendance until the crisis is past. It was learned today that Dr. Charles Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., is speeding to Washington and this information gave rise to the belief that a surgical operation may be necessary to save Mrs. Harding's life. The doctors announced they expect the crisis within twenty-four hours and that they were exerting every effort to prevent poisonous secretions from being absorbed by her system. If these efforts are successful the physicians hope that Mrs. Harding's strong will power will put her through.

W. J. BURKE IS MADE HEAD OF NEW PARTY TO DEFEAT REED

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 8.—A Progressive party ticket was filed here today at the bureau of elections naming William J. Burke as a candidate for the United States Senate, in opposition to David A. Reed, Republican nominee, and containing the name of Gifford Pinchot, Republican candidate for Governor, as its candidate for Governor.

The petitions for Burke and Pinchot contain 5,000 signatures. George W. Axe, James P. Casey, C. S. Golden, John L. Morgan and Frank J. Fitch, said to be friends of Congressman Burke, filed the petition, the signatures having been obtained in the industrial counties of the State.

Earl W. Thompson, lawyer, Philadelphia, is the party's candidate in opposition to Senator George Wharton Pepper, and Colonel David J. Davis, organization candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, is on the ticket for that office. Charles I. Dunbar, a conductor of Butler, is the candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs. Pinchot's occupation is given on his petition as that of "farmer."

This was the last day for filing nomination papers and the State department remained open after time to get the late comers.

SPACKMAN GETS VERDICT

The second week of September term civil court adjourned this morning when the jury in the case of Paul Spackman vs. the Osceola Baking Company returned its verdict. The jury allowed Mr. Spackman $697.33 for his claim of $750.

The September Grand Jury which had been in session this week ended its labors yesterday afternoon.

PALM, PHILIPSBURG BOY, IS BEST BET OF TRAINER BEZDEK

State College, Pa., Sept. 9.—Hugo Bezdek has had his first and second Penn State teams in hot scrimmage every day this week and in yesterday's fray the Nittany Lions had their first chance to experiment with the new rule covering the extra point after touchdown. Although Bezdek went on record last winter as opposing the change because as he put it, "the touchdown is the thing" and the extra point can well be eliminated entirely; nevertheless, the wily Penn State mentor does not expect to be caught napping and to lose any games by that one point margin.

With his new quarterback, Mike Palm, as a key man, Bezdek has tried every variation of the play from scrimmage on the five-year line. Palm has been showing promise as a drop-kicker and he has demonstrated that it is not difficult to score the point in this fashion. However, the possibilities of the forward pass, the end run and the dash through tackle have all been tried, by the Lions, and in every case the varsity has been able to score.

Just what system Bezdek will use in the games to come is an open question. The Blue and White coach always been partial to place-kicking or drop kick and if Palm continues to improve, many of Penn State's points will probably be scored in that fashion. However Bezdek is foxey enough to work up something entirely new, and there is little doubt but that opposing teams will be kept on their toes to figure out just what play the Nittany mentor will depend on for his extra point.

LA FOLLETTE IS SAID TO BE SLATED FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 8.—News of the victory of United States Senator Robert M. La Follette in the Wisconsin primaries was greeted at convention headquarters of the executive council; American Federation of Labor, here today, with predictions that Mr. La Follette would be organized labor's candidate for the Presidency in 1924.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared that "while discussion of Senator La Follette in this convention is premature, I would say that the Wisconsin Senator is a great American."

Other members of the American Federation of Labor executive council, which will formally convene in annual session at the Ambassador Hotel here tomorrow, frankly admitted that La Follette was "their man," and revealed plans to launch his candidacy for nomination on a non-party ticket.

Franklin Youth Kills Self When He Crashes His Bicycle Into Auto

Franklin, Pa., Sept. 9.—Losing control of his bicycle while descending a hill here, Guy Runyon, aged 20, was almost instantly killed when he crashed into an automobile. Broken glass severed his jugular vein and he died almost instantly.

UNCLE SAM REMEMBERS HIS BOYS! UNFORTUNATE DOUGHBOY REWARDED

Republics are said to be ungrateful, but our Uncle Samuel remembers his own and can be depended upon to look after and take care, especially of his stalwart sons weakened by disease contracted in his service. There have been many instances demonstrating this fact in this section from time to time, the most recent to come to our attention being the following:

In 1920 a young man named Irvin Homer Wayland was sent to the Clearfield county jail from Troutville, charged with assault and battery and carrying concealed deadly weapons. He had been confined in the jail but a short time when Sheriff Gorman decided the man was insane and asked that a commission in lunacy be appointed to examine him.

Judge Bell appointed such commission, the young man was adjudged insane and later sent to Danville asylum, where he is yet being held. Wayland served in the world war, entering the army from DuBois on July 26, 1918. After his arrival at Camp Lee, Va., he was assigned to the Quartermasters Corps.

Previous to the arrival here of the

"clean-up squad," which was through here looking after the claims of all ex-service men, John M. Bain, who was in charge of such work, sent a letter to Wayland, who had made a claim for compensation for illness due to military service. This letter finally fell into the hands of the young soldier's mother, Mrs. Emma Frantz, of Munson. Mrs. Frantz came to Clearfield; consulted Mr. Bain and steps were at once taken to bring the matter to the attention of the proper military authorities. Before anything could be done for him, on account of his mental condition, it was necessary to have a guardian appointed for him. Application was made to Judge Bell in May last and Jacob Smutzinger, then of Munson, but now of Philipsburg, was appointed.

Wayland's case was then prosecuted before the Claims Commission by Mr. Bain and this week he was notified by Mr. Smutzinger that he had received Uncle Sam's check for $1,537.33 for Wayland, who had been allowed compensation at the rate of $80 per month from Jan. 26, 1921, the date of his first application for aid.

THREE DIPHTHERIA CASES BREAK OUT DURING THE WEEK

The weekly report of Secretary Gaulin of the local Board of Health shows three new cases of diphtheria reported for the past seven days. During that period quarantine was lifted on two cases of whooping cough. There are at present nine cases of contagious disease under quarantine in the town. They are as follows:

First Ward—Whooping cough, 3.
Second Ward—Diphtheria, 2; scarlet fever, 1; whooping cough, 2.
Third Ward—Diphtheria, 1.
The Fourth Ward continues to remain free from disease.

DUBOIS DOCTOR IS DOING RELIEF WORK IN RUSSIAN FIELD

Moscow, Russia, (My Mail)—Dr. S. B. Ross, of DuBois, Pa., who arrived in Russia about two months ago from the United States, has been assigned an unique task—the work of going out through Russia with the first sanitary and medical train sent out by the American relief administration.

With seventeen carloads of all classes of hospital and medical supplies, this train will carry aid to five large cities and a large number of smaller towns in its month's journey. The purpose of the train, of which Dr. Ross is in charge, is to carry aid to places where there is a dearth of medical supplies, but where the need has not been desperate enough to warrant an A. R. A. district organization. Accordingly, its route will not include the famine or epidemic areas of Russia, which are already cared for by A. R. A. local organization headquarters. Special carloads of medicines, surgical instruments and hospital necessities have been prepared for Tulsa, Kursk, Veronez, Kozlow and Ryazan and distributions will be made at as many smaller towns en route as the supplies will allow. Two carloads of soap and blankets make up a part of the equipment.

Dr. Ross will be in general charge of the distributions. An important part of his responsibilities will be to guard the seventeen carloads of valuable equipment. Medical supplies are so badly needed in Russia at the present time that the greatest care has to be exercised lest they be stolen. Like a good reputation, their price is "above rubies."

The equipment of the sanitary train is made up of supplies purchased with the money provided by the American Red Cross, under its $3,000,000 appropriation to the A. R. A. for this special purpose, and of surplus army medical supplies. Approximately 125 classes of essential medicines are included in the list, with especially large quantities of quinine and tonics. The hospital supplies range all the way from fracture beds to slippers and from operating cases to atomizers. Large quantities of gauze and bandages of cotton absorbent, of which there is a great scarcity in the Russian hospitals, are an important part of the outfit.

Dr. Ross, who is well known in his

HAVE NO CLUES

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 9.—H. T. Dickinson, who gave his address as Harrisburg, Pa., and who New Jersey state police say is an aide to Secretary of the Navy Denby was one of a party of men and women when the machine in which they were riding struck and killed William Harding near here. John Brennan, driver of the car, is being held on the technical charge of manslaughter while the others have been released on bond. Seven quarts of liquor were found in the machine and all of the occupants were in a more or less intoxicated condition.

David L. Dennis, aged 85 years, a grand old christian gentleman residing alone in his home at Pine Grove Mills, Centre county, on his way home from church, was run down and killed by an unknown motorist on Sunday evening, September 3. He crossed the road near his home and was struck by the bumper of the car. He was carried on the bumper for some distance and then fell to the road, the wheels passing over his body, killing him outright. The driver escaped. He was said to be driving fast with no lights and his license number could not be secured. He stopped for gasoline at a service station in Pine Grove Mills, just before the tragedy and drove rapidly away without waiting for change due him. This action makes the officers think he was driving in a stolen car and anxious to get this section.

PINCHOT & SWOOP MAKE A WONDERFUL CAMPAIGN TEAM

The great throng which attended grange picnic at Centre Hall Thursday were greatly impressed at the strong points made by the various speakers from the political stump. Among the Republican nominees to make speeches were Pinchot, Davis and Swoope. Col. Davis, who is a world war veteran, left immediately after the meeting for the Williamsport Convention of the American Legion whereupon Mr. Pinchot, impressed with the clean cut presentation of the campaign issues by Mr. Swoope, invited him to accompany the party to Lewistown where a great evening meeting was held. There is no question but that Mr. Pinchot and Mr. Swoope will appear on the same platforms throughout the whole district as Mr. Pinchot fully realizes the powers of eloquence and logic of Mr. Swoope.

His head was not aching; but there throbbed within his head, ceaselessly and enormously, a pulse that seemed to shake him at its every beat. It was going knock, knock, knock! He began to have the feeling that if this frightful knocking continued it would beat its way out. Something would give way. He was the father of Effie's child; he was the murderer of Effie and her child; he was neither; but the crimes were fastened upon him as ineradicable pigsticker in his skin. He was a buyer and a murderer, and every refutation that could produce turned to a brand in his hands and branded him yet more deeply. He writhed in torment. Forever, he would carry the memory of that fierce and sweating face pressing towards him across the table in that court. Not in an other face that stood like flame before his eyes. Twynning, the gowder of that passionate man's passion, the instigator and instrument of this utter and appalling destruction. Twynning, Twynning, Twynning! He ground his teeth upon the name. He twisted in his chair upon the thought. Twynning, Twynning, Twynning! Knock, knock, knock! Ah, the knocking, that knocking! Something was going to give way in a minute. It must be abated. A feverish desire to smoke came upon him. He felt in his pockets for his cigarette case. He had not got it. He remembered that he had started for Brighton without it, discovered there that he had left it behind. He started to hunt for it. He remembered that previous occasion of searching for it like this. Ah, when it was found, it had been in his pocket, and he had found it in the back of the clock. Effie! He went quickly to the clock and opened it. Good! It was there. He snatched it up. Something else there. A folded paper. His name penciled on it: Mr. Sabre. She had left a message for him! That cigarette case business had been deliberately done!

He began to read. Tears stood in his eyes. Pityful, oh, pitiful. He turned the page—knock, knock, knock! The knocking suddenly ceased. He threw up his hand. He gave a very loud cry. A single note. A note of extraordinary exultation. "Ha!"

He crushed the paper between his hands. He cried aloud: "Into my hands! Into my hands! Thou hast delivered him!"

He opened the paper and read again, his hand shaking, and now a most terrible trembling upon him. Dear Mr. Sabre.

I wanted you to go to Brighton so I could be alone to do what I am just going to do. You see they won't let me keep my little baby, and now I have made things too terrible for you. So I see the only thing to do is to take myself out of it all and take my little baby with me. Soon I shall explain things to God and then I think it will be quite all right. My heart is filled with gratitude to you. I cannot express it; but I shall tell God when I explain everything to Him; and my one hope is that after I have been punished I shall be allowed to meet you again, and thank you—there, where everything will be understood.

He turned over.

I feel I ought, to tell you now, before I leave this world, what I never was able to tell you or anyone. The father of my little baby was Harold Twynning who used to be in your office. We had been secretly engaged a very, very long time and then he was in an officers

padding eagerly about after scattered cartridges. As he searched his voice went harshly. "He's bound to me to hell. At the very gates of hell I've got him, got him, and I'll have him by the throat and hurl him in!" He broke open the breech and jammed the cartridges in, counting them. "One, two, three, four, five, six!" He snapped up the breech and jammed the revolver in his jacket pocket. He went scrambling again down the stairs, and as he scrambled down he cried, "I'll cram the letter down his throat. When he's sprawling, when he's looking, perhaps I'll out with my gun and drill him, drill him for the dog, the dog that he is."

"He was arrived! He was here! Into my hands! Into my hands!" He passed into the office and swiftly as he could go up the stairs. He counted no one. He came to Twynning's door and put his hand upon the latch. Immediately, and enormously, so that for a moment he was forced to pause, the pulse broke out anew in his head. Knock, knock, knock. Knock, knock, knock. Cure the thing! Never mind. In! In! At him!

He went in.

On the left, at the far end of the room, Twynning sat at his desk. He was crouched at his desk. His head was buried in his hands. At his elbows, vivid upon the black expanse of the table, lay a torn envelope, dull red.

Sabre shut the door and leant his stick against the wall by the fire. He stole the letter from his pocket and walked across and stood over Twynning. Twynning had not heard him. He stood over him and looked down upon him. Knock, knock, knock. Curse the thing! There was Twynning's neck, that brown strip between his collar and his head that in a minute he would catch him by. No, seated thus he would catch his butt and wrench him back and cram his meal upon him. Knock, knock, knock. Curse the thing!

He said heavily, "Twynning, Twynning, I've come to speak to you about your son."

Twynning slightly twisted his face in his hands so as to glance up at Sabre. His face was red. He said in an odd, thick voice, "Oh, Sabre, Sabre, have you heard?"

Sabre said, "I heard."

"My boy Harold. Oh, Sabre, Sabre, my boy, my boy, my Harold!"

He began to sob; his shoulders heaving.

Sabre gave a sound that was just a whimper. Oh, irony of fate! Oh, cynicism incredible in its malignancy! Oh, cumulative touch! To deliver him this his enemy to strike, and to present him for the knife thus already stricken!

No sound in all the range of sounds whereby man can express emotion was possible to express this emotion that now surcharged him. This was a special and a private agony of the gods reserved for victims approved for very nice and exquisite experiment. He felt himself squeezed right down beneath a pressure squeezing to his vitals; and there was squeezed out of him just a whimper.

Twynning was brokenly saying, "It's good of you to come, Sabre. I feel it. After that business, I'm sorry about it, Sabre. I feel your goodness coming to me like this. But you know, you always knew, what my boy was to me. My Harold. My Harold. Such a good boy, Sabre. Such a good, Christian boy. And now he's gone, he's gone. Never to see him again. My boy. My son. Oh, dreadful!"

And he went on, distraught and pitiable. "My boy. My Harold. Such a good boy, Sabre. Such a perfect boy. My Harold!"

The letter was crumpled in Sabre's right hand. He was constricting it in his hand and knocking his clenched knuckles on the marble.

"My boy. My dear, good boy. Oh, Sabre, Sabre!"

He dropped his right arm and swung it by his side; to and fro; over the fender—over the fire; over the hearth—over the flames.

"My Harold. Never to see his face again! My Harold!"

Giant Power Under Perfect Control

Driving the New Series Paige 6-66 is an almost effortless operation. The woman who drives can handle this long 131 inch wheelbase with astonishing ease and safety.

There is not the slightest necessity for tugging at the wheel or struggling with gears. The special Timken axle and the new clutch have accomplished marvels for steering and gear changing. Indeed, both have become instinctive operations.

And, so far as control is concerned, the word takes on a new meaning after that mighty 73 horsepower reservoir has been tapped. It means just one thing—immediate and absolute responsiveness to the driver's will.

Surely these are the prime elements that you expect in a really fine motor car. Until recently they cost from four to seven thousand dollars. Now, in the Master of the Highway, they are yours—in generous abundance—for $2195.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

A writer in the Altoona Mirror recently unearthed the following "ancient history," which is interesting in that it shows the workings of the mind of the average school director of the early day:

Speaking of school boards, a resolution passed by the Lancaster school directors in 1830 has just been unearthed which will be read with amused interest.

The measure forbade the use of the public schoolhouse of that city to the town's Literary society for debating the question: "Are Railroads Practical?"

The grounds for the refusal were: "If the society wants the use of the school house to debate some decent, moral question, we would cheerfully give the use of it, but such a thing as a railroad is wicked as well as absurd. If God had wanted human beings to travel at the fearful rate of seven miles an hour He would have clearly foretold it by His prophets but since nothing is said about it in His Holy Writ, it is plainly an invention of the devil to lead immortal souls to hell. Hence we must refuse the use of the schoolhouse."

Think of a railroad train running at the "fearful rate" of seven miles an hour today!

What would that school board have said about electric street cars, which run through the most congested centers of the city, or the automobile, or the flying machine?

Some railroad trains reach seventy miles an hour at certain points on the system and in special tests have gone away beyond that speed.

Yet, many of the things we are doing today will appear just as ridiculous to the people living 100 years from now as the resolution adopted by the Lancaster school board regarding railroad trains appears to us.

France in 1871 paid an indemnity of $1,000,000,000. 2 per cent. of her total wealth of $50,000,000,000 or 4 per cent. if her assets are put at $25,000,000,000, a figure entirely too low.

Germany originally was asked to pay an indemnity of $6,000,000,000. 80 per cent of her total wealth, basing this at between $75,000,000,000 and $80,000,000,000 in 1914. Since then the indemnity has been reduced to about $32,000,000,000 still more than 40 per cent of her wealth.

Twenty-three per cent of physicians questioned in forty-six states declare that a substantial breakfast of fruit, cereal, bacon and eggs, toast and beverage is the preferred foundation for the day for brain workers and professional folk.

In a survey just made by the Medical Review of Reviews these practitioners assert an ample first meal followed by a lighter luncheon makes for better health and better work of those of sedentary habits.

Only 13 per cent of these interrogated were opposed to the heavy breakfast, while the remaining 87 per cent gave inconclusive answers. Some fifty-seven doctors based their advocacy of a heavy breakfast for mental workers on the idea that only

HAVE THE KIDDIES COMPLAINED OF NOT BEING ABLE TO SEE?

If this is the case you cannot expect them to make the marks in school that you would like to have them. They cannot do good work unless they have the efficiency of eyesight that they should have.

a light luncheon was required in the middle of the working day, thus leaving the brain active and alert for the afternoon's work.

The great majority put themselves on record as against the dispensing with any breakfast practiced by some faddists and even against the breakfast consisting merely of a cup of coffee and a slice of toast.

Ten doctors, however, favored a light breakfast, light luncheon and a principal meal at the end of the working day, and one of them, Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, director of the Illinois State Department of Health added:

"If folks even want pie for breakfast and they live in the pie belt, don't rob them of their pie providing that they don't eat too much of several other things."

He had braved a thousand dangers in the land of savage strangers, war and famine, fire and tempest, epidemics and the rest." (This was in metrical form in the London Chronicle.)
"But yesterday at five (and it's lucky he's alive), he was hurt in a collision with a boy on roller skates."

Creole implies Pure Blood.
Creole is a term properly used in the southern part of this country. Latin America, the West Indies and the Island of Mauritius to designate the pure-blooded descendants of original French, Spanish or Portuguese stock. The term must not be confused with mulatto, for it cannot properly be applied to any person of mixed race. Neither is it used in speaking of the Canadian French.

"Little Brother" Again.
I was dancing with "the only one" when I suggested that we sit out the next dance. We did—out in one corner of the dark veranda. It was while we were engaged in a very fond embrace that Little Brother Bill, showing his new flashlight to some of the guests, absent-mindedly directed its rays our way.—Exchange

Oregon's Biggest Cherry Tree.
With a trunk six feet in diameter at the base and a spread of branches covering approximately 5,000 square feet, a cherry tree in the Hood river district of Oregon is believed to be the largest tree of its kind in the world.

A Suggestion.
Buttons are made from ivory nuts, says an exchange. We know a number of people who would be doing much better in this world if they were made into buttons.

Means End of Advancement.
Sad is the day for any man when he becomes absolutely satisfied with the life that he is living, the thoughts that he is thinking and the deeds that he is doing; when there ceases to be forever beating at the doors of his soul a desire to do something larger which he feels and knows he was meant and intended to do.—Phillips Brooks.

Deserves Admiration.
Our admiration for the man who, whether the conversation starts on garden sass or the philosophy of Bergson, will yet bring it in three adroit sentences to his favorite hobby.—Milwaukee Journal.

Take Home A Bag Of Our Toasted PEANUTS

They are getting to be great things, are the peanuts that we're toasting these days. There's a richness and snap to them that everyone is starting to tell about and to enjoy.

We start in with great big Virginia peanuts and then toast them to a rich nuttiness of flavor and follow this with a quick chilling which imprisons all the richness right in each kernel.

Take home a bag with you tonight.

HOW TO KEEP YOUR BABY WELL

A Weekly Talk To Mothers Issued Through The Babies' Prophylactic Clinic, Henry Phipps Institution, 7th and Lombard Streets.

Some of Baby's Most Frequent Disturbances and Illnesses

Vomiting—Vomiting is often an early symptom of infectious diseases. When vomiting occurs in a well baby stop his food—give him only boiled water until you find out what is the matter.

If the baby vomits many times in succession, always consult the doctor.

Vomiting may, however, be only a sign of over-feeding. If you handled or played with your baby just after feeding him, he is likely to spit up a little. It may mean that he is being fed too often or that he is getting too much to eat at one time or that he is taking his food too quickly.

For the artificially-fed baby, the holes in the nipple should be small enough to prevent the food's being taken too rapidly.

Remove the breast fed baby from the breast for short breathing intervals and hold him against your shoulder until the air is expelled.

A few spoonfuls of hot water usually stop hiccoughs.

Constipation—Your baby may be constipated from various causes. Usually this can be corrected without the use of drugs by training that will form the habit of a regular daily bowel movement, and by a change in diet. Let your baby drink plenty of water. A young infant should have a few ounces at a time, once or twice a day. A year old baby should be given from six to eight ounces a day. This water should be boiled and cooled.

Orange and prune juice, oatmeal, graham cereal, vegetable and fruit pulp all have laxative qualities.

If your baby does not have a movement for 48 hours you may gently massage his abdomen just before the time for a bowel movement. Use soap or other suppositories, or give an enema or injection, made of warm soapy water, using a mild white or castile soap and a syringe that holds from about one to three ounces of water. Grease the nozzle of the syringe with vaseline; place your baby on his side and place a rubber sheet under him, insert the tip of the syringe and squeeze the bulb. If the baby is held over a chamber, the water will usually be expelled soon.

Give an enema only when a quick result is desired. Never give one for habitual constipation unless your doctor orders it.

If the constipation is especially severe, use one or two tablespoonfuls of olive oil, instead of soap suds. Give this at night and let the baby retain it. Usually you may give a young infant a teaspoonful of mineral oil once or twice a day or from 1-2 to 2 teaspoonfuls of milk of magnesia. Never use castor oil as a laxative as its after effect is constipation.

If you are in any doubt call the doctor.

Undoubtedly.

A ghost which spends its time sitting on the edge of a bath has made its appearance in a large country house near Hitchin. Probably the spirit of a departed plumber who died waiting for his mate.—Passing Show, London

Woman's Advantage.

"Women undergo greater trials than men." True, fair ones; but no matter whom they have murdered there's always an acquittal or a hung jury.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

An Easier Job.

COX RETURNS WITH VIEWS ON WHAT U. S. SHOULD DO AT ONCE

New York, N. Y., Sept. 9.—America holds the key to settlement of Europe's most pressing problem, that of reparations, Governor James M. Cox, declared today upon his arrival on the French liner Paris. Cox returned to advise America's participation in the League of Nations, but declared everything else, he said, was reparations. During his trip through Europe the former candidate for the Presidency visited England, France and Germany and enroute talked with the active heads of the Governments.

Lost Curia Are Found.

In a picture show at a Madison street theater one evening a little girl and her mother were seated near me. A comic picture was on, showing a lady "making up" with paint, powder, false hair, etc. The climax came when the interested little girl cried out: "Oh, mamma, there's the curia you lost at Aunt Bell's party. Where do you 'spose she found 'em?"—Chicago Tribune.

Great Reservoirs of India.

For conserving her water supply there are to be found in India tremendous artificial lakes. At Dhubai, in the Rajputana province, for instance, there is a reservoir with a superficial area of 21 square miles; the masonry dam measuring over 300 yards in length and 22 yards in height. In southern India, too, there are several reservoirs over 12 square miles in area.

VERY PLEASANT OCCASION

The country home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Scott was a scene of merriment last evening when a double event was celebrated. It was the annual outing of class No. 3, The Alpha Bible Class of St. John's Lutheran S. S., and also the occasion of Mrs. Scott's birthday. The members of the class and their families assembled on the beautiful lawn where a large table laden with good things was in waiting and after the invocation by Rev. Hauser, all fell to work to satisfy the inner man. It was a feast fit for a king as all testified by their action. After the feast games were played until the hour arrived when all good children retire when one by one or more took their departure feeling it was good to have been there. This very active class is taught by Mr. E. A. Tobias, who was unable to meet with the class, since he is engaged in teaching at Houtzdale. Mrs. Scott was presented with a beautiful hand bag by the class. There were 69 present.

Chinese Wall.
The exact length of the Chinese wall is not known. The Chinese call it the "10,000 li wall," which would mean that it was something over 3,250 miles long. Some modern authorities range, in giving its length, from 1,200 to 1,700 miles. It is from 25 to 30 feet high and about 20 feet thick at the base.

WHAT WE USUALLY FORGET

"Pretty soft for that man—he doesn't have a thing to worry about."
 "Who?"
 "That gray-haired gentleman over there. He has all the money he'll ever need."
 "Oh! Do you know him?"
 "Just by reputation."
 "Well, he worked steadily 40 years, day and night, earning his right to rest now."

Worked Both Ways.

Hewitt—You look grim. What's the matter?
 Jewett—Matter enough. I gave my wife a ticket to the town where her mother lives for a present.
 Hewitt—That was nice.
 Jewett—Was it? The confounded ticket was good in either direction and my wife sent it to her mother to come here on and I'm on my way to the train to meet her."

Talent Feared.

"You have not cultivated the arts of oratory?"
 "My constituents say they don't want an orator in my place," replied Senator Sorghum. "They're afraid an orator might be our delivering lectures when he ought to be answering mail or keeping tab on the congressional debates."

Sudden Activities.

"I understand there has been a crime wave in Crimson Gulch."
 "Nothing of the kind," protested Cactus Joe. "Our beautiful an' growin' city has suffered in reputation simply because our new sheriff got restless an' started diggin' up a lot o' gossip that nobody has been payin' attention to for years."

Interesting Specimen.

"I'm afraid our boy Josh is a lounge lizard," said Farmer Cornsossol.
 "He ain't," replied Josh's fond mother.
 "He's only a plesiosaurus."
 "How do you make that out?"
 "I happened to see in the dictionary that 'plesiosaurus' means 'near lizard.'"

ADORABLE SCARS

"What a horrid scar George has on his forehead."
 "Horrid? The ideal. Why, he got that in a football game."

Legislation.

Our legislature does not pause to heed the speeches long since spoke. It's easier to make new laws than to repair the ones we broke.

Considerate.

Edith—"But why did you become engaged to Jack if you don't intend to marry him?"
 Mabel—"Well, poor Jack is very sensitive, and you know it notifies a man much more to be refused than to have the engagement broken."

Previous Training.

"This sawdust evangelist points a glowing picture of nations in the skies."
 "I guess that kind of talk is easy for him."
 "Eh?"
 "He used to sell suburban bungalows"—Birmingham Age Herald.

Real Acting.

"The star put a great deal of fervor into that love scene."
 "The leading lady is his wife, too. They've been married four or five years."
 "You don't say so? Gosh, that is art."

From Analogy.

Judge (to lady witness)—Married? Witness—Yes, twice.
 Judge—Age?
 Witness—Twenty-six.
 Judge (in undertone to his clerk)—Also twice—Answers.

Back to Normal.

"Things are getting back to normal."
 "Eh?"
 "A good many of these aesthetic dancers have had to return to burlesque"—Judge.

Leave It to Them.

"A political career ought to bring out what there is in a man."
 "If it doesn't," replied Senator Shortworthy. "Usually, it's his nose his enemies are asleep at the switch."

A Hitch.

"The salary is $1000."
 "Good."
 "The work."
 "Hold on. I thought this was a political job."

In the Beauty Parlor

By JOHN PALMER

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

"What, Mrs. Rintoul? Her that used to come in here to have her face massaged pretty nearly every day? Fine looking woman she was, wasn't she? Yes, there's a story about that, and I don't mind telling it to you, now, that she's left these parts."

"You remember Freddy Laurie, who married Squire Embree's daughter? Good-hearted fellow he was, but wild, and couldn't resist women. He hadn't been married more than a year before Mrs. Rintoul and he—well, I don't want to speak hard of any one, but it was easy to see how things lay between those two. Fascinated with each other from the start, they were, and poor Mrs. Laurie crying her eyes out in the Laurie place."

"Night after night he'd be seen driving about with Mrs. Rintoul. Freddy wasn't more than thirty, and she must have been forty if she was a day, though she didn't look it. Infatuated they were, but she was more infatuated with him than he was with her, I guess."

"You know when a woman gets to be around forty, all the fires of youth are apt to burn up in her again. Especially if she's been unhappily married, as Mrs. Rintoul had been. She was crazy about him from the first, and it was that that attracted him."

"That was when she began coming in here to have her face massaged. She didn't look forty, but there's no way—no, absolutely no way—in which a woman of forty can look like a girl of twenty-five. They all think they can, though! Mrs. Rintoul looked five years younger than she was, but she had little lines about the corners of her eyes and mouth, she hadn't the firmness of flesh that a young woman has. And the massaging helped some, but it didn't bring back youth."

"Matty was with me then—you remember her? That tall, dark girl who was so good at manicuring. She got friendly with Mrs. Rintoul, and Mrs. Rintoul used to confide in her—most everything, save that she never mentioned Freddy Laurie's name. Then Matty told her about the doctor that made a specialty of taking out wrinkles by operating."

"Of course that's really the only permanent cure. You can massage and massage, but the lines will always come back again unless you take a flap of the loose skin away and tighten the whole face up. That's what Matty advised—and Mrs. Rintoul fell for it."

"Not good business of Matty's? I told her so. I reckoned it cost me ten dollars a week, what with the massage and the hair dressing. Matty was a fool in a way—but anyhow the harm was done."

"Mrs. Rintoul went to Dr. Deering. Called himself a doctor, though I guess he never saw the inside of any medical school. Why, they're not allowed to do operations unless for diseases I've heard. However, he knew his job all right. There's plenty of foolish women in this town he's operated on at two hundred and fifty apiece—and changed their faces so that you'd hardly know they were the same people."

"Mrs. Rintoul went to him, and after that she stayed home for two weeks, waiting for the scars to heal. Then she made the cuts under the hair, you know. Matty went up to the house to see her while she was convalescing and the report she brought back was perfectly startling. She said Mrs. Rintoul hadn't a line in her face—just as smooth as a baby's. Lord, what some women will do when they're infatuated with a man!"

"The day came when she was out. Of course Freddy Laurie didn't know what she'd been doing. He thought she was ill with grippe, and every day he was around there with flowers—and poor Mrs. Laurie crying up at the Laurie place."

"It was Mrs. Rintoul's maid told Matty what happened when they met. Young Laurie stared at her as if she'd turned black. 'I didn't seem to recognize you somehow,' the maid heard him say. That was all—just that. And Mrs. Rintoul turned as white as a ghost, and soon after Mr. Laurie came away."

"They met once or twice after that, but their lovemaking was at an end. When I saw Mrs. Rintoul I saw what had happened. You see, before the operation she'd been a sweet-looking woman. After it—well, everything was different—her with her smooth baby face and her mature figure. She was a woman of thirty-five just the same—nothing could alter that; but her face—didn't fit."

"So I don't advise my customers to have anything to do with Dr. Deering."

A Profitable Rug.

A physician was walking up Broad way when he saw a dentist friend looking at some shirts in a show window. Just then a panhandler stepped up to the dentist and began to unravel a hard luck story. To the physician's astonishment the dentist lifted his hand to his ear and said, raising his voice considerably:

"How's that? You'll have to speak louder. I'm hard-of-hearing." The panhandler hurried away, grumbling to himself. The physician walked up and laid his hand on the dentist's shoulder. "Jim," he said, "you seem to have ear trouble."

"No, perfectly normal," was the reply. "But that chap was a professional, and 'playing deaf' is the best way I know to get rid of that kind."

FORMER GOSHEN GIRL DIES

Deatolia Ethel Shirey, a former Goshen township resident, died at the Stanford Hospital in California on Thursday, August 31st, and her remains will be brought here for burial.

Miss Shirey was born in Goshen township September 24, 1876, and spent the past sixteen years in California. She was a graduate of Lock Haven Normal, also of the Berkeley, California, University.

The body is expected to arrive in Clearfield on Sunday and will be taken to the home of her aunt, Mrs. Edith Hipps, on Walnut street. Funeral services will be held at Goshen, N. E. church on Monday, with interment in Goshen cemetery.

Monkeys Cleanly Animals.

Monkeys, in their wild state, are very clean animals, and explorers who have visited their forest homes, and observed their habits, report that they have often seen these animals drinking water into their faces, and having a good wash very much as mankind does, of course, without the soap!

Dangerous Method.

"What are your usual modes of punishment?" was among the questions submitted to a teacher in a rural district in Ohio. Her answer was, "I try moral suasion first, and if that does not work I use capital punishment." As it was a neighborhood where moral suasion had not been a success and the children were scarce, the committee took no risks.

Whence Alfalfa Came.

Alfalfa is really a Spanish name for the Medicago Sativa, to give it its full botanical name. It is also known as Spanish trefoil. It may be termed one of the old timers on this continent as it was brought over to this country by the early Spaniards. It took very kindly to its new home and now is known and valued as fodder in many parts of Canada and the United States.

Shellfish Probably First.

Shellfish are older than man. They lived upon the earth many years, perhaps thousands of years and perhaps thousands of centuries, before the first man or the first ape that looked like a man came to live upon our sphere.

WAR RECORDS OF GRANDDADS

Mrs. Edward W. Burt of North Carolina Working on Hereditary Society Plan.

"Granddad, what did you do during the war?" will be the special query of the young Americans of the next generation that Mrs. Edward W. Burt of Salisbury, N. C., has set herself out to answer. Mrs. Burt is chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary committee to perpetuate the organization in a hereditary society.

The Auxiliary, in its present make-up, is composed of mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of the members of the American Legion, and of the women of the same status who lost men in the World war. There is no junior society to the Auxiliary or to the Legion, such as there is to other patriotic societies—for instance, the Sons of the Revolution—but when a generation has passed undoubtedly such a society will come into existence. It is to prepare the way for an hereditary society, composed of the daughters and granddaughters of World war veterans, that Mrs. Burt is working. Her plan will include incorporation into the Auxiliary records of the war records of the Legion men, so that future genealogists will have no trouble in locating the war records of their granddads.

THE VETERAN OF SEVEN WARS

A veteran of seven wars at forty-eight years of age, Robert Bruce MacGregor of Seattle, Wash., says that his days on the battlefields are forever over and that he expects to devote the remaining years of his life to peaceful activities.

Mr. MacGregor served in the World war with the original 100th Cavalary Regiment, which numbered 1,093 men in 1914. Eleven of that 1,093 are now alive and only two of the eleven can walk. Mr. MacGregor is one of the two.

He fought in the Philippines during the Spanish-American war, in China during the Boxer rebellion, in South Africa during the Natal rebellion, the Matabele uprising and the Jameson raid. Twelve medals, four decorations and wounds which keep him constantly under the doctor's care constitute his spoils.

Although Mr. MacGregor has left the battlefield, he believes that there are peacetime battles to be fought. He has been fighting unemployment. In Seattle in behalf of the American Legion for a number of months. He recently landed jobs for 36 former soldiers. More than that, he has adopted and is educating a fifteen-year-old boy.

DESIGNS THE LEGION POSTER

Drawing by Clarence Reeder, Newspaper Artist, Advertised the Big Meet at New Orleans.

Nineteen New Orleans artists competed in a contest for a poster to advertise the American Legion national convention, but a former "top sergeant" won the prize of $100. Clarence Reeder, staff artist of a New Orleans newspaper, who drilled rookies at Camp Pike during the World war, drew the winning poster.

The successful design represents a doughboy, a sailor and a marine in uniform, looking at a guidebook labeled "New Orleans, the Paris of the U. S. A." with a view of the famous French quarter below. Above the three figures are the Legion emblem and the words, "Oh, buddy, let's go," and below, "American Legion National Convention at New Orleans, October 16-20."

Forty thousand copies of the poster will be sent to all Legion posts and will be on display in railroad stations in many parts of the country.

Boycott Them.

"Now, children," beamed the Sunday school teacher, "who can suggest the lesson we are taught by the downfall of Samson? Very well, George." "Don't patronize women hairbers, ma'am."—American Legion Weekly.

Optimistic Thought.

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 10

TEACHING THE LAW OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Neh. 8:1-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Touch not the anointing oil, the way of thy statutes, and I shall keep it unto the end.—Ps. 119:32.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—Deut. 6:4-9. Acts 17:14, 16-18. 1 Cor. 13:1-13.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Joy of Learning God's Word.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How a Whole City Heard God's Word.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Power of the Word of God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Community Bible Study.

It will be of interest and profit to present this lesson by an ideal Sunday school class:

1. A Model Bible Class (vv. 1-6). The people gathered themselves together and "spoke unto Ezra to bring the book of the Law." It was not a matter of the teacher urging the class to come together, but the class with yearning hearts requesting the teacher to come with God's Word.

2. The Representative Assembly (vv. 7-12). The class was made up of men, women and children. Then did not leave the church-going to the women. Neither were the children left at home with nurses or to play in the streets. God's Word should be taught to all classes, men, women and children.

3. An Appreciative Assembly (vv. 13-18). Their ears were attentive from morning to midday. So eager were they to know God's Word that they did not get tired although the lesson lasted for five or six hours. There was no pulling of watches in that class.

4. Due Reverence Shown God's Word (vv. 4, 5). When Ezra opened the Law all the people stood up. This they did out of respect for the holy book. The reason there is not proper reverence for the Bible is that people are not taught to believe it is God's Word. Reverence in the house of God will only be when the Bible is regarded as God's very words.

5. They Joined Heartily in the Prayer (v. 6). As Ezra led them in prayer the people joined heartily in saying "Amen! Amen!" bowing their faces to the ground.

6. A Model Bible Teacher (vv. 7, 8). He stood Up Where the People Could See Him (v. 5). The position and bearing of the teacher has much to do with the attention and interest of the class.

7. He Read Distinctly (v. 8). Teachers should take particular heed to this. Much Bible reading is greatly to the discredit of the Word and the reader.

8. Caused the People to Understand the Reading (v. 8). The supreme business of the teacher is to make the Word of God so plain that all, old and young, can understand.

9. The Impressions Made (vv. 9-18). The effect of teaching God's Word is most important. If this class is very encouraging.

1. Conviction of Sin (v. 9). The Word of God brings conviction of sin (Acts 2:37). It is quick and powerful (Heb. 4:12). The way to get conviction of sin is by teaching the Word of God, not by appealing to the emotions by telling death-bed stories. The people had real cause for sorrow—they were far from God. They not only had become worldly and the rich were in their greed oppressing the poor, but they were perplexed through their mixed marriages.

2. Weeping Turned Into Joy (vv. 10-12). When they had been convicted and confessed God would not have His children to be sad. Continued mourning will not atone for the sins that are past. It unites one for present tasks and abhors the pardoning God. Besides, joy has a salutary effect upon one's entire being.

3. Shared Their Blessings With Others (vv. 10-12). Christianity is not having a good time alone; it is sharing our prosperity with others. True joy manifests itself in giving to others. Pure religion goes out to minister to the poor (Jas. 1:27).

4. The People Obeyed (vv. 13-18). In their acquaintance with the Scriptures they found that the Feast of Tabernacles had been long neglected. As soon as they understood the Scriptures they went forth to do as they had been told. They went to work and kept this sacred feast in a way that it had not been kept since the days of Joshua (v. 17). If the Scriptures were read and made plain many things could be found which have not been complied with. In the keeping of this feast they dwelt in booths, thus typifying their pilgrim character and bringing to their remembrance the days of their wilderness journey.

Arsenic Not Fatal to Birds.

Investigations by government scientists show that the spraying of trees with preparations of arsenic to eliminate the gypsy moth is not necessarily fatal to birds. The scarcity of birds in regions where much spraying is done can be explained by the fact that the spraying diminishes the supply of insect food and the birds are obliged to seek it elsewhere.

Politeness Springs From Kindness.

Real politeness begins in kindness. Only those whose hearts are loving are really courteous.

The Great Desire.

It is human nature, we presume, but nevertheless, have you ever observed that no matter how long a man has been out of a job, or how hard he has struggled to get one, as soon as he gets work he begins to look forward to holidays?

Logwood, the timber which is exported from Haiti all over the world, was introduced into that island in 1730 for the purpose of furnishing blossoms which would yield a superior nectar for bees.

Show Respect for Bees.

Attention is called to the fact that no one ever seems to think of a bee as a bug. Insect is about the worst thing they are ever called.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

Miss Pearl Rafferty, who spent the week at Akron, O., with relatives and friends, returned home to Curwensville today.

Eli Hile, one of the staid and substantial citizens of Lumber City, was a Curwensville business visitor yesterday. He has been a resident of that section all of the 77 years of his life, and is authority on the early history of that bustling little village. He is a younger brother of David Hile of this place.

The first day of the great Dollar Day sale has passed into history. There were not a great many people in town during the day or evening, which was hardly expected by the merchants. They were banking on today's sales as a compensation for their offering goods at a sacrifice sale. The people in the rural sections were too busy threshing out grain and cutting off corn to come in until Saturday.

The contractors on the State Highway over on the South Side made reasonably good headway with the work the last few days. The roadbed is down as far on the stretch as the school house. A few more days of good weather the road ought to be finished as far as the Anderson creek bridge.

Rex Caldwell, youngest son of the late Isaac Caldwell, wife and two children, who have been residing at Wayne, Illinois, for some years, arrived in Curwensville Thursday and are the guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Myers, South Side. They expect to remain in this vicinity in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Lafferty and Mrs. H. J. Weigle, of Westchester Pa., were town visitors yesterday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Dale, on North Walnut street. Both ladies were at one time school teachers in this borough. Both have many friends in this vicinity.

A number of Methodist ladies took their lunch baskets yesterday afternoon and hid themselves out to Irwin Park, eating their evening lunch and enjoying the moonlit evening.

Boy babies seem to be the prevailing rage in this vicinity of late. Last Friday one was born in the home of John Marisky and another one on Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Taylor, on South Side.

The W. C. T. U. convention ended yesterday evening. As The Progress representative was promised a report of the proceedings and did not get it, he will not attempt to make a report of the event.

The greater majority of Curwensville citizens are interested more or less in the progress of our public schools. By courtesy of Prof. Grant Norris, The Progress is able to give the following favorable report of the first week's proceedings:

Our schools opened on Tuesday of this week with a larger enrollment than the enrollment of the first week last year. The High School enrollment is larger now than it was during the entire term last year. There were enrolled 21 Seniors, 26 Juniors, 28 Sophomores, and 57 Freshmen, making a total of 132. It was found necessary to make two divisions of the Freshman class. This put double work on the High School faculty. The school board is perfectly willing to employ another teacher, but there is no class room for him to work in if he were employed. At present the study hall is being used for class recitation purposes.

But the Junior High School is worse off than the Senior High. One hundred thirty pupils are enrolled in the Junior High with but two rooms. This gives each teacher 65 pupils to take care of. When it is known that the conditions in the rooms will not accommodate this number, and it is known, and no place to put them, will some one tell the school board what to do? Here are three rooms, but with only two small rooms to place them. Certainly something should be done to relieve this condition.

The elementary rooms are crowded, in some places, just as much. One room has on its roll 79 pupils. This condition can be relieved to some extent by sending pupils to the South Side, but the parents and pupils object. Prof. Norris has been trying all week to relieve congested conditions in the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades in the Patton and Locust street buildings, but the parents and pupils are set against it. Prof. Norris wants some one to tell him where to send the pupils, or how the enrollment can be equalized when everybody, except those who stay, object.

The "Annex" was opened up this week on the South Side with an enrollment of 41, and there are more who should go there if they would. The total enrollment of the grades is 722, making a total of 854 enrolled to date.

At the regular meeting of the school board last night it was decided to increase the indebtedness of the borough sufficiently to build adequate school facilities for next year. Attorney R. D. Swoope was instructed to get the bond issue on the November ballot and ask the citizenry of Curwensville to authorize a bond issue of 7 per cent. on the assessed valuation of the property in Curwensville. This movement should be kept going until realized.

The athletic association is getting down to business, and the football boys are practicing hard for their first game here in Curwensville. Prof. James Black of Oshanter is doing good work in coaching the boys. He

Family Portraits.
There is a beautiful home on Lombard that the owners wished to leave at the summer. Two parvenus with social ambition thought this residence might be the means of launching them into local society, so they went to look it over. Upon entering the boudoir of a young woman member of the family, their eyes fell upon a beautiful Madonna on the wall. They also observed a Beatrice. One of the party said, "Well, if we do take the house will you please remove the family portraits?"—Judge.

Day of Joy at Hand.
In spite of the rain that had been pelting down most of the day, Jimmy had seemed to be in unusually good spirits. When asked the cause of his beaming countenance, the youngster rattled his little bank and replied: "Daddy said I was saving my pennies for a rainy day; now it's raining and I kin spend 'em."

AMUSEMENTS

RICHARDS

Do you believe in ghosts? Are you afraid of spooks? Do you revel in the weird and uncanny? Strange things appear, disappear and re-appear in the most amazing manner imaginable, wonderful flowers and phantom Princesses spring up from nowhere, people float about on air and young ladies vanish before your very eyes, but such are the wonderful performances given by Richards, "The Wizard" and his excellent company, who open a three nights' engagement at the Driggs theatre.

Mr. Richards comes here with the entire original production exactly as presented during his record-breaking tour of America's leading cities, where both press and public have acclaimed him the greatest magician of recent years. Kidnapped when a child by Mohammedan religious fanatics, while with his parents in India, Richards was taught and given an insight into the ancient Yogi philosophy, known to but one man in millions, and thus he brings to the American theatre the most amazing performance of modern times. Besides many tense, thrilling mysteries, there is a most pleasing variety of clean comedy, new music, novelties, and splendor, with elaborate costumes and lighting effects, which all go to make up the greatest production of its kind ever witnessed in a local theatre.—Adv.

OUR SCHOOL SUPPLIES ARE MAKING A BIG HIT

The kiddies are finding that this store has everything for them now that they have spent the first couple of days in school. They find that the things that they desire, and that the school board does not furnish, are here in plenty in such variety that they get just what they were looking for.

Have the kiddies come here for those things that they must have to make their school work better and their hearts more at rest while they work.

Always Active.
It is known that every particle of earth is in a state of constant activity. Nature abhors stagnation as she abhors vacuum. Even the stagnant, muddy pool of water generates various forms of life. Every particle of matter is a stone has a chemistry that is ever changing form. No matter how infinitesimal the atoms of the combined elements of our sphere not one is in the same place today that it knew yesterday. Every hour, every moment experiences change.

That period of the French revolution known as the reign of terror is generally considered to have extended from January 21, 1793, the date of the execution of Louis XVI, to July 28, 1794, when Robespierre and other sanguinary leaders were guillotined.

WILLIAM SOMERVILLE CALLED BY DEATH

William Somerville, a resident of this community for the past nineteen years, died at his home in Lawrence township, on Thursday, Sept. 7th, 1922. The deceased was born in Cambria county on November 4th, 1865, and was therefore in his 57th year. He followed farming all his life, residing at East Ridge in Burnside township until 1903 when he came to his late home in Lawrence township, just beyond the Clearfield borough line.

William Somerville was an upright, industrious man and enjoyed the unbounded respect and esteem of a wide circle of friends. He served as postmaster at East Ridge, now Westover, R. D., from 1865 to 1874.

On April 7th, 1882, he was united in marriage with Mary Dunlap and to this union were born three children. He is survived by his widow, one son and one daughter, William S. Somerville of Lawrence township, and Mrs. C. A. Simler of Philipsburg, one daughter, Virginia, dying in infancy. One grandson also survives.

Funeral services will be held from his late home on Monday morning at 9 o'clock and the remains will be taken to East Ridge cemetery for interment.

MISS COLUMBUS IS NOW "MISS AMERICA"

Atlantic City, Sept. 9.—A sad little girl bit her lips hard but unsuccessfully to hold back the tears early today as she was stripped of her diadem as "Miss America" and saw it placed on the shapely head of another. The award was made after midnight on one of the great piers in the presence of thousands of patrons.

Foods Rich in Proteids.
The reason why all forms of meat, cheese and eggs form so satisfying a diet is not because they are rich in calories but because they are rich in proteid. Brooklyn Navy Yard.
The Brooklyn navy yard was established February 23, 1861, when the first land, twenty-three acres, was bought from one John Jackson for $40,000. The yard now comprises 140 acres and has a water front of nearly three miles, protected by a sea wall of granite.

Price of Drugs Fixed.
The German government has for years fixed the retail price of drugs even to the extent of designating who must be charged for bottle, cork, label or ointment box used in dispensing the medicine.

Embalmed Bodies as Medicine.
Six or seven hundred years ago our doctors held firmly to the belief that there was great medicinal value in ground mummies, and many a nasty dose given ailing youngsters contained a bit of the embalmed body of a man or woman who may have known Joseph, or seen the miracles of Moses.

FORDSON REDUCES HANDLING COSTS

Handling is the greatest labor cost any industry has to deal with. This is true no matter how large or small it may be or what its character is. It applies equally from the greatest manufacturing plant to the smallest industry. It is as much a fact on the farm as in the factory. Therefore anything that cuts handling costs cuts the greatest expense of production and is greatly needed by practically every concern to successfully meet with the changed conditions which all businesses are experiencing.

The Fordson adapted for haulage purposes through the use of W. & K. rubber tired wheels meets this need. It is cutting handling costs in hundreds of places today. It has proven its ability to do more hauling at less cost in widely varied lines of work. Its sturdy construction, its great power, its wide adaptability to hauling requirements, its unusually low cost, makes it the most profitable investment when properly applied to the thousands of handling and transportation problems.

W. & K. rubber tired wheels are equipped with Standard S. A. E. tires ready to serve at any tire station. W. & K. extension rims, with extension cleats, have been developed for use with the solid tired wheels to meet certain traction conditions.

This equipment is manufactured by the Whitehead and Kales Manufacturing Co. of Detroit, Mich., and will be on exhibition at the Fordson Tractor Industrial expo which will be held at Pittsburgh during the week of Sept. 11-15, where all interested in this valuable equipment may see it in operation. Distribution is handled through West Penn Body Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., and H. R. Hooper Co., Youngstown, O. The retail end being handled by the local authorized Ford dealer.

The charming young woman who expected to be married soon, went to the registration book for the first time. The man in charge asked: "With what party do you expect to be affiliated?" "That's none of your business," she replied. "If I have to tell his name I'm not going to register, so there."

Doctors and Drugs.
A large number of physicians are themselves addicted to the use of morphine. This is no wonder, considering the strenuous life they lead, and the fact that they are continually handling the drug. Conscientious physicians have for some time past refused to administer it, but then, what was the use, while there were so many others willing to do so?

The full title of Los Angeles was in Spanish times "Pueblo de Nuestra Señora la Reina de los Angeles" or "City of our Lady the Queen of the Angels."

Why Vaccination Pays.
Statistics show that to vaccinate a person against smallpox at public expense costs about twenty-five cents, while the disease itself costs the public on an average about $50 per case.

COULD NOT TURN IN BED

Operation Avoided by Taking
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dayton, Ohio.—"I had such pains that I had to be turned in bed every time I wished to move. They said an operation was necessary. My mother would keep saying: 'Why don't you take Pinkham's, Henrietta?' and I'd say, 'Oh, mamma, it won't help me, I've tried too much.' One day she said, 'Let me get you one bottle of each kind. You won't be out very much if it will believe me or not, but I only took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine when I began to get relief and I am regular ever since without a pain or a headache.' When I lie down I can get up without help and without pain. I can't begin to tell you how I feel and look. I have begun to gain in weight and look more like I ought to. I think every day of ways I have been helped. Any one who does not believe me can write to me and I will tell them what shape I was in. I am ready to do anything I can to help your medicine."—Mrs. HENRIETTA MILLER, 127 Sprague St., Dayton, Ohio. DEVELOPMENTS IN THE SHOP STRIKE SHOW LITTLE SIGN OF EARLY PEACE

A Counter Injunction
Washington, D. C. Sept. 9.—A temporary restraining order preventing local Federal authorities from going beyond the scope of the Daugherty strike injunction was issued by Judge Bailey in Equity Court here today on motion of the International Brotherhood Electrical Workers. The special injunction will restrain United States Marshals from interfering with meetings of the organization in this district unless they are shown to thwart interstate commerce.

A. F. L. In Session
Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 9.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor convened here today to decide what action they would take with regard to the Daugherty injunction against the shopmen's strike. Council members were in an exceedingly bitter mood as they went into session. They made it plain that every effort would be exerted to nullify the injunction. A bitter attack was made on President Harding. Attorney General Daugherty and Judge Wilkerson. Their participation in the injunction proceedings were called a breach of the law, a violation of the constitution and a concession to finance.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, met a few western rail executives in conference in the Chicago Club yesterday afternoon, presumably to discuss proposals for a basis of settlement of the shopmen's strike on certain roads by individual agreements.

So far as learned, only a few of the Western roads had planned to send representatives. H. E. Byram, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, was known to be at the meeting. Both he and Willard earlier had refused to discuss the conference and its subject matter, although Byram had said his car would discuss separate agreements if a satisfactory settlement basis could be found.

The conference broke up shortly before 3 o'clock with no announcement of what had been discussed or whether anything had been accomplished.

Willard's Plan
The plan Willard is said to have proposed for individual agreements for settlement of the strike, so far as outlined, does not mention seniority rights, the Chicago "Daily News" said today. According to this published story the seniority question would be compromised, although full seniority would not be restored.

The outline of the Willard proposal as given by the "Daily News" follows:

"All men to return to work in position of the class they originally held on June 30, 1922, and at the same point, and as many of such men as possible are to be put to work Sept. 1, at present rate of pay, and all employees who have been on strike or under pay not later than October 1 next, except such men as have been guilty of proven acts of violence.

Question of Dispute
"The relative standing, as between themselves, of men returning to work and men laid off, furloughed or on leave of absence, including general chairmen and others, who were as for June 30, 1922, properly on leave of absence, will be restored as of June 30, 1922, and they will be called back to work in that order as defined above.

"If a dispute arises as to the relative standing of an employee or employees, or if an controversy arises growing out of the strike that cannot be otherwise adjusted by the carrier and said employee or employees, the matter shall be referred by the organization parties to this agreement, the employees or the carrier in the interest of any employee who may be aggrieved to a commission to be established and constituted as hereinafter provided, for final decision by a majority vote.

The commission referred to shall be composed of the five chief officers of the train service brotherhoods and five railroad officers experienced in matters of this kind and selected from the railroads agreeing hereto. This commission shall be constituted forthwith on the signing of the agreement and have jurisdiction to decide all cases that may be referred to it on (Continued on Page 2).

Chemist, After Making Tests, Says Men Entombed In Gold Mine Are Still Alive

JACKSON, California, September 9.—The forty-seven men entombed in the Argonaut Gold Mine here are still alive, Dr. L. M. Duschak, Consulting Chemical Engineer of the industrial accident commission, announced early today. He based his announcement on chemical tests made for putrefaction at the 2,400 foot level in the Argonaut shaft. He found no signs of putrefaction and declared that if any of the men were dead his tests could not fail to show it. Jackson went wild when this news was announced. The wives of the missing men rushed to the shaft and urged on the rescue crews. The mine officials have offered a reward of $5,000 to the crew which will be first to break through into the chamber where the men are supposed to be confined.

TURKISH CAVALRY PENETRATES THE SMYRNA ENVIRONS

Athens, Greece, Sept. 9.—Turkish cavalry penetrated the environs of Smyrna today and the Allies' consuls have assumed control of that city as the Greek authorities are preparing to flee. Marines of the United States, Italy and Great Britain have been landed to preserve order and seize the consulates of these nations. American destroyers, as well as British and Italian aircraft, are in the harbor. The streets are swarming with refugees and 100,000 homeless natives are concentrated in the ports of Asia minor. Greek troops have been driven back by the fury of the Turk attack and are being embarked hurriedly from Smyrna.

MUCH NEEDED RAIN FALLS IN WESTERN CORN-WHEAT BELT

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 9.—A million-dollar rain fell over the entire grain belt today, relieving a drought of long duration. A soaking rainfall from the extreme southwest to the northwest brought moisture which was badly needed for late corn and to allow the farmer to prepare their ground for winter wheat. Fear had been expressed that the condition of the ground would cause considerable curtailment of acreage to be planted to wheat.

MRS. HARDING, WIFE OF PRESIDENT, IS CRITICALLY ILL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—Mrs. Harding passed a fairly good night and her condition is as favorable as can be expected at this time, an official bulletin from the White House stated today. The statement said:

"9 A. M. Mrs. Harding had a fairly good night. The complication of yesterday are less prevalent this morning. On the whole her condition is as favorable as can be expected at this time.—Sawyer."

This announcement was accompanied by an order closing the White House grounds to visitors and the cancellation of President Harding's engagements for the day. Four physicians and a nurse remained at Mrs. Harding's bedside until after 3 a. m. today. One of the physicians will be in constant attendance until the crisis is past. It was learned today that Dr. Charles Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., is speeding to Washington and this information gave rise to the belief that a surgical operation may be necessary to save Mrs. Harding's life. The doctors announced they expect the crisis within twenty-four hours and that they were exerting every effort to prevent poisonous secretions from being absorbed by her system. If these efforts are successful the physicians hope that Mrs. Harding's strong will power will put her through.

W. J. BURKE IS MADE HEAD OF NEW PARTY TO DEFEAT REED

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 8.—A Progressive party ticket was filed here today at the bureau of elections naming William J. Burke as a candidate for the United States Senate, in opposition to David A. Reed, Republican nominee, and containing the name of Gifford Pinchot, Republican candidate for Governor, as its candidate for Governor.

The petitions for Burke and Pinchot contain 5,000 signatures. George W. Axe, James P. Casey, C. S. Golden, John L. Morgan and Frank J. Fitch, said to be friends of Congressman Burke, filed the petition, the signatures having been obtained in the industrial counties of the State.

Earl W. Thompson, lawyer, Philadelphia, is the party's candidate in opposition to Senator George Wharton Pepper, and Colonel David J. Davis, organization candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, is the ticket for that office. Charles I. Dunbar, a conductor of Butler, is the candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs. Pinchot's occupation is given on his petition as that of "farmer."

This was the last day for filing nomination papers and the State department remained open after time to get the late comers.

SPACKMAN GETS VERDICT

The second week of September term civil court adjourned this morning when the jury in the case of Paul Spackman vs. the Osceola Baking Company returned its verdict. The jury allowed Mr. Spackman $697.33 for his claim of $750.

The September Grand Jury which had been in session this week ended its labors yesterday afternoon.

PALM, PHILIPSBURG BOY, IS BEST BET OF TRAINER BEZDEK

State College, Pa., Sept. 9.—Hugo Bezdek has had his first and second Penn State teams in hot scrimmage every day this week and in yesterday's fray the Nittany Lions had their first chance to experiment with the new rule covering the extra point after touchdown. Although Bezdek went on record last winter as opposing the change because as he put it, "the touchdown is the thing" and the extra point can well be eliminated entirely; nevertheless, the wily Penn State mentor does not expect to be caught napping and to lose any games by that one point margin.

With his new quarterback, Mike Palm, as a key man, Bezdek has tried every variation of the play from scrimmage on the five-year line. Palm has been showing promise as a drop-kicker and he has demonstrated that it is not difficult to score the point in this fashion. However, the possibilities of the forward pass, the end run and the dash through tackle have all been tried, by the Lions, and in every case the varsity has been able to score.

Just what system Bezdek will use in the games to come is an open question. The Blue and White coach always been partial to place-kicking or drop kick and if Palm continues to improve, many of Penn State's points will probably be scored in that fashion. However Bezdek is foxey enough to work up something entirely new, and there is little doubt but that opposing teams will be kept on their toes to figure out just what play the Nittany mentor will depend on for his extra point.

LA FOLLETTE IS SAID TO BE SLATED FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 8.—News of the victory of United States Senator Robert M. La Follette in the Wisconsin primaries was greeted at convention headquarters of the executive council; American Federation of Labor, here today, with predictions that Mr. La Follette would be organized labor's candidate for the Presidency in 1924.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared that "while discussion of Senator La Follette in this convention is premature, I would say that the Wisconsin Senator is a great American."

Other members of the American Federation of Labor executive council, which will formally convene in annual session at the Ambassador Hotel here tomorrow, frankly admitted that La Follette was "their man," and revealed plans to launch his candidacy for nomination on a non-party ticket.

UNCLE SAM REMEMBERS HIS BOYS! UNFORTUNATE DOUGHBOY REWARDED

Republics are said to be ungrateful, but our Uncle Samuel remembers his own and can be depended upon to look after and take care, especially of his stalwart sons weakened by disease contracted in his service. There have been many instances demonstrating this fact in this section from time to time, the most recent to come to our attention being the following:

In 1920 a young man named Irvin Homer Wayland was sent to the Clearfield county jail from Troutville, charged with assault and battery and carrying concealed deadly weapons. He had been confined in the jail but a short time when Sheriff Gorman decided the man was insane and asked that a commission in lunacy be appointed to examine him.

Judge Bell appointed such commission, the young man was adjudged insane and later sent to Danville asylum, where he is yet being held. Wayland served in the world war, entering the army from DuBois on July 26, 1918. After his arrival at Camp Lee, Va., he was assigned to the Quartermasters Corps.

Previous to the arrival here of the

"clean-up squad," which was through here looking after the claims of all ex-service men, John M. Bain, who was in charge of such work, sent a letter to Wayland, who had made a claim for compensation for illness due to military service. This letter finally fell into the hands of the young soldier's mother, Mrs. Emma Frantz, of Munson. Mrs. Frantz came to Clearfield, consulted Mr. Bain and steps were at once taken to bring the matter to the attention of the proper military authorities. Before anything could be done for him, on account of his mental condition, it was necessary to have a guardian appointed for him. Application was made to Judge Bell in May last and Jacob Smutzinger, then of Munson, but now of Philipsburg, was appointed.

Wayland's case was then prosecuted before the Claims Commission by Mr. Bain and this week he was notified by Mr. Smutzinger that he had received Uncle Sam's check for $1,537.33 for Wayland, who had been allowed compensation at the rate of $80 per month from Jan. 26, 1921, the date of his first application for aid.

THREE DIPHTHERIA CASES BREAK OUT DURING THE WEEK

The weekly report of Secretary Gaulin of the local Board of Health shows three new cases of diphtheria reported for the past seven days. During that period quarantine was lifted on two cases of whooping cough. There are at present nine cases of contagious disease under quarantine in the town. They are as follows:

First Ward—Whooping cough, 3.
Second Ward—Diphtheria, 2; scarlet fever, 1; whooping cough, 2.
Third Ward—Diphtheria, 1.
The Fourth Ward continues to remain free from disease.

DUBOIS DOCTOR IS DOING RELIEF WORK IN RUSSIAN FIELD

Moscow, Russia, (My Mail)—Dr. S. B. Ross, of DuBois, Pa., who arrived in Russia about two months ago from the United States, has been assigned an unique task—the work of going out through Russia with the first sanitary and medical train sent out by the American relief administration.

With seventeen carloads of all classes of hospital and medical supplies, this train will carry aid to five large cities and a large number of smaller towns in its month's journey. The purpose of the train, of which Dr. Ross is in charge, is to carry aid to places where there is a dearth of medical supplies, but where the need has not been desperate enough to warrant an A. R. A. district organization. Accordingly, its route will not include the famine or epidemic areas of Russia, which are already cared for by A. R. A. local organization headquarters. Special carloads of medicines, surgical instruments and hospital necessities have been prepared for Tulsa, Kursk, Veronez, Kozlow and Ryazan and distributions will be made at as many smaller towns en route as the supplies will allow. Two carloads of soap and blankets make up a part of the equipment.

Dr. Ross will be in general charge of the distributions. An important part of his responsibilities will be to guard the seventeen carloads of valuable equipment. Medical supplies are so badly needed in Russia at the present time that the greatest care has to be exercised lest they be stolen. Like a good reputation, their price is "above rubies."

The equipment of the sanitary train is made up of supplies purchased with the money provided by the American Red Cross, under its $3,000,000 appropriation to the A. R. A. for this special purpose, and of surplus army medical supplies. Approximately 125 classes of essential medicines are included in the list, with especially large quantities of quinine and tonics. The hospital supplies range all the way from fracture beds to slippers and from operating cases to atomizers. Large quantities of gauze and bandages of cotton absorbent, of which there is a great scarcity in the Russian hospitals, are an important part of the outfit.

Dr. Ross, who is well known in his

HAVE NO CLUES

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 9.—H. T. Dickinson, who gave his address as Harrisburg, Pa., and who New Jersey state police say is an aide to Secretary of the Navy Denby was one of a party of men and women when the machine in which they were riding struck and killed William Harding near here. John Brennan, driver of the car, is being held on the technical charge of manslaughter while the others have been released on bond. Seven quarts of liquor were found in the machine and all of the occupants were in a more or less intoxicated condition.

David L. Dennis, aged 85 years, a grand old christian gentleman residing alone in his home at Pine Grove Mills, Centre county, on his way home from church, was run down and killed by an unknown motorist on Sunday evening, September 3. He crossed the road near his home and was struck by the bumper of the car. He was carried on the bumper for some distance and then fell to the road, the wheels passing over his body, killing him outright. The driver escaped. He was said to be driving fast with no lights and his license number could not be secured. He stopped for gasoline at a service station in Pine Grove Mills, just before the tragedy and drove rapidly away without waiting for change due him. This action makes the officers think he was driving in a stolen car and anxious to get this section.

PINCHOT & SWOPE MAKE A WONDERFUL CAMPAIGN TEAM

The great throng which attended grange picnic at Centre Hall Thursday were greatly impressed at the strong points made by the various speakers from the political stump. Among the Republican nominees to make speeches were Pinchot, Davis and Swope. Col. Davis, who is a world war veteran, left immediately after the meeting for the Williamsport Convention of the American Legion whereupon Mr. Pinchot, impressed with the clean cut presentation of the campaign issues by Mr. Swope, invited him to accompany the party to Lewistown where a great evening meeting was held. There is no question but that Mr. Pinchot and Mr. Swope will appear on the same platforms throughout the whole district as Mr. Pinchot fully realizes the powers of eloquence and logic of Mr. Swope.

His head was not aching; but there throbbed within his head, ceaselessly and enormously, a pulse that seemed to shake him at its every beat. It was going knock, knock, knock! He began to have the feeling that if this frightful knocking continued it would beat its way out. Something would give way. He was the father of Effie's child; he was the murderer of Effie and her child; he was neither; but the crimes were fastened upon him as ineradicable pigsticker in his skin. He was a buyer and a murderer, and every refutation that could produce turned to a brand in his hands and branded him yet more deeply. He writhed in torment. Forever, he would carry the memory of that fierce and sweating face pressing towards him across the table in that court. Not in an other face that stood like flame before his eyes. Twynning, the gowder of that passionate man's passion, the instigator and instrument of this utter and appalling destruction. Twynning, Twynning, Twynning! He ground his teeth upon the name. He twisted in his chair upon the thought. Twynning, Twynning, Twynning! Knock, knock, knock! Ah, the knocking, that knocking! Something was going to give way in a minute. It must be abated. A feverish desire to smoke came upon him. He felt in his pockets for his cigarette case. He had not got it. He remembered that he had started for Brighton without it, discovered there that he had left it behind. He started to hunt for it. He remembered that previous occasion of searching for it like this. Twynning, Twynning, Twynning! He had found it, and it lay about him on a cigarette case in the back of the clock. Effie! He went quickly to the clock and opened it. Good! It was there. He snatched it up. Something else there. A folded paper. His name penciled on it: Mr. Sabre. She had left a message for him! That cigarette case business had been deliberately done!

He began to read. Tears stood in his eyes. Pityful, oh, pitiful. He turned the page—knock, knock, knock! The knocking suddenly ceased. He threw up his hand. He gave a very loud cry. A single note. A note of extraordinary exultation. "Ha!"

He crushed the paper between his hands. He cried aloud: "Into my hands! Into my hands! Thou hast delivered him!"

He opened the paper and read again, his hand shaking, and now a most terrible trembling upon him. Dear Mr. Sabre.

I wanted you to go to Brighton so I could be alone to do what I am just going to do. You see they won't let me keep my little baby, and now I have made things too terrible for you. So I see the only thing to do is to take myself out of it all and take my little baby with me. Soon I shall explain things to God and then I think it will be quite all right. My heart is filled with gratitude to you. I cannot express it; but I shall tell God when I explain everything to Him; and my one hope is that after I have been punished I shall be allowed to meet you again, and thank you—there, where everything will be understood.

He turned over.

I feel I ought to tell you now, before I leave this world, what I never was able to tell you or anyone. The father of my little baby was Harold Twynning who used to be in your office. We had been secretly engaged a very, very long time and then he was in an officers'

padding eagerly about after scattered cartridges. As he searched his voice went harshly. "He's bound to me to hell. At the very gates of hell I've got him, got him, and I'll have him by the throat and hurl him in!" He broke open the breech and jammed the cartridges in, counting them. "One, two, three, four, five, six!" He snapped up the breech and jammed the revolver in his jacket pocket. He went scrambling again down the stairs, and as he scrambled down he cried. "I'll cram the letter down his throat. When he's sprawling, when he's looking, perhaps I'll out with my gun and drill him, drill him for the dog, the dog that he is."

"He was arrived! He was here! "Into my hands! Into my hands!" He passed into the office and swiftly as he could go up the stairs. He counted no one. He came to Twynning's door and put his hand upon the latch. Immediately, and enormously, so that for a moment he was forced to pause, the pulse broke out anew in his head. Knock, knock, knock. Knock, knock, knock. Cure the thing! Never mind. In! In! At him!

He went in.

III

On the left, at the far end of the room, Twynning sat at his desk. He was crouched at his desk. His head was buried in his hands. At his elbows, vivid upon the black expanse of the table, lay a torn envelope, dull red.

Sabre shut the door and leant his stick against the wall by the fire. He stole the letter from his pocket and walked across and stood over Twynning. Twynning had not heard him. He stood over him and looked down upon him. Knock, knock, knock. Curse the thing! There was Twynning's neck, that brown strip between his collar and his head that in a minute he would catch him by. No, seated thus he would catch his butt and wrench him back and cram his meal upon him. Knock, knock, knock. Curse the thing!

He said heavily, "Twynning, Twynning, I've come to speak to you about your son."

Twynning slightly twisted his face in his hands so as to glance up at Sabre. His face was red. He said in an odd, thick voice: "Oh, Sabre, Sabre, have you heard?"

Sabre said, "I heard."

"My boy Harold. Oh, Sabre, Sabre, my boy, my boy, my Harold!"

He began to sob; his shoulders heaving.

Sabre gave a sound that was just a whimper. Oh, irony of fate! Oh, cynicism incredible in its malignancy! Oh, cumulative touch! To deliver him this his enemy to strike, and to present him for the knife thus already stricken!

No sound in all the range of sounds whereby man can express emotion was possible to express this emotion that now surcharged him. This was a special and a private agony of the gods reserved for victims approved for very nice and exquisite experiment. He felt himself squeezed right down beneath a pressure squeezing to his vitals; and there was squeezed out of him just a whimper.

Twynning was brokenly saying, "It's good of you to come, Sabre. I feel it. After that business, I'm sorry about it, Sabre. I feel your goodness coming to me like this. But you know, you always knew, what my boy was to me. My Harold. My Harold. Such a good boy, Sabre. Such a good, Christian boy. And now he's gone, he's gone. Never to see him again. My boy. My son. My son!"

Oh, dreadful!

And he went on, distraught and pitiable. "My boy. My Harold. Such a good boy, Sabre. Such a perfect boy. My Harold!"

The letter was crumpled in Sabre's right hand. He was constricting it in his hand and knocking his clenched knuckles on the marble.

"My boy. My dear, good boy. Oh, Sabre, Sabre!"

He dropped his right arm and swung it by his side; to and fro; over the fender—over the fire; over the hearth—over the flames.

"My Harold. Never to see his face again! My Harold!"

Giant Power Under Perfect Control

Driving the New Series Paige 6-66 is an almost effortless operation. The woman who drives can handle this long 131 inch wheelbase with astonishing ease and safety.

There is not the slightest necessity for tugging at the wheel or struggling with gears. The special Timken axle and the new clutch have accomplished marvels for steering and gear changing. Indeed, both have become instinctive operations.

And, so far as control is concerned, the word takes on a new meaning after that mighty 73 horsepower reservoir has been tapped. It means just one thing—immediate and absolute responsiveness to the driver's will.

Surely these are the prime elements that you expect in a really fine motor car. Until recently they cost from four to seven thousand dollars. Now, in the Master of the Highway, they are yours—in generous abundance—for $2195.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

A writer in the Altoona Mirror recently unearthed the following "ancient history," which is interesting in that it shows the workings of the mind of the average school director of the early day:

Speaking of school boards, a resolution passed by the Lancaster school directors in 1830 has just been unearthed which will be read with amused interest.

The measure forbade the use of the public schoolhouse of that city to the town's Literary society for debating the question: "Are Railroads Practical?"

The grounds for the refusal were: "If the society wants the use of the school house to debate some decent, moral question, we would cheerfully give the use of it, but such a thing as a railroad is wicked as well as absurd. If God had wanted human beings to travel at the fearful rate of seven miles an hour He would have clearly foretold it by His prophets but since nothing is said about it in His Holy Writ, it is plainly an invention of the devil to lead immortal souls to hell. Hence we must refuse the use of the schoolhouse."

Think of a railroad train running at the "fearful rate" of seven miles an hour today!

What would that school board have said about electric street cars, which run through the most congested centers of the city, or the automobile, or the flying machine?

Some railroad trains reach seventy miles an hour at certain points on the system and in special tests have gone away beyond that speed.

Yet, many of the things we are doing today will appear just as ridiculous to the people living 100 years from now as the resolution adopted by the Lancaster school board regarding railroad trains appears to us.

France in 1871 paid an indemnity of $1,000,000,000. 2 per cent. of her total wealth of $50,000,000,000 or 4 per cent. if her assets are put at $25,000,000,000, a figure entirely too low.

Germany originally was asked to pay an indemnity of $6,000,000,000. 80 per cent of her total wealth, basing this at between $75,000,000,000 and $80,000,000,000 in 1914. Since then the indemnity has been reduced to about $32,000,000,000 still more than 40 per cent of her wealth.

Twenty-three per cent of physicians questioned in forty-six states declare that a substantial breakfast of fruit, cereal, bacon and eggs, toast and beverage is the preferred foundation for the day for brain workers and professional folk.

In a survey just made by the Medical Review of Reviews these practitioners assert an ample first meal followed by a lighter luncheon makes for better health and better work of those of sedentary habits.

Only 13 per cent of these interrogated were opposed to the heavy breakfast, while the remaining 87 per cent gave inconclusive answers. Some fifty-seven doctors based their advocacy of a heavy breakfast for mental workers on the idea that only a light luncheon was required in the middle of the working day, thus leaving the brain active and alert for the afternoon's work.

The great majority put themselves on record as against the dispensing with any breakfast practiced by some faddists and even against the breakfast consisting merely of a cup of coffee and a slice of toast.

Ten doctors, however, favored a light breakfast, light luncheon and a principal meal at the end of the working day, and one of them, Dr. Isaac D. Rawlings, director of the Illinois State Department of Health added:

"If folks even want pie for breakfast and they live in the pie belt, don't rob them of their pie providing that they don't eat too much of several other things."

He had braved a thousand dangers in the land of savage strangers, war and famine, fire and tempest, epidemics and the rest." (This was in metrical form in the London Chronicle.)

HOW TO KEEP YOUR BABY WELL

A Weekly Talk To Mothers Issued Through The Babies' Prophylactic Clinic, Henry Phipps Institution, 7th and Lombard Streets.

Some of Baby's Most Frequent Disturbances and Illnesses

Vomiting—Vomiting is often an early symptom of infectious diseases. When vomiting occurs in a well baby stop his food—give him only boiled water until you find out what is the matter.

If the baby vomits many times in succession, always consult the doctor.

Vomiting may, however, be only a sign of over-feeding. If you handled or played with your baby just after feeding him, he is likely to spit up a little. It may mean that he is being fed too often or that he is getting too much to eat at one time or that he is taking his food too quickly.

For the artificially-fed baby, the holes in the nipple should be small enough to prevent the food's being taken too rapidly.

Remove the breast fed baby from the breast for short breathing intervals and hold him against your shoulder until the air is expelled.

A few spoonfuls of hot water usually stop hiccoughs.

Constipation—Your baby may be constipated from various causes. Usually this can be corrected without the use of drugs by training that will form the habit of a regular daily bowel movement, and by a change in diet. Let your baby drink plenty of water. A young infant should have a few ounces at a time, once or twice a day. A year old baby should be given from six to eight ounces a day. This water should be boiled and cooled.

Orange and prune juice, oatmeal, graham cereal, vegetable and fruit pulp all have laxative qualities.

If your baby does not have a movement for 48 hours you may gently massage his abdomen just before the time for a bowel movement. Use soap or other suppositories, or give an enema or injection, made of warm soapy water, using a mild white or castile soap and a syringe that holds from about one to three ounces of water. Grease the nozzle of the syringe with vaseline; place your baby on his side and place a rubber sheet under him, insert the tip of the syringe and squeeze the bulb. If the baby is held over a chamber, the water will usually be expelled soon.

Give an enema only when a quick result is desired. Never give one for habitual constipation unless your doctor orders it.

If the constipation is especially severe, use one or two tablespoonfuls of olive oil, instead of soap suds. Give this at night and let the baby retain it. Usually you may give a young infant a teaspoonful of mineral oil once or twice a day or from 1-2 to 2 teaspoonfuls of milk of magnesia. Never use castor oil as a laxative as its after effect is constipation.

If you are in any doubt call the doctor.

In southern India, too, there are several reservoirs over 12 square miles in area.

VERY PLEASANT OCCASION

The country home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Scott was a scene of merriment last evening when a double event was celebrated. It was the annual outing of class No. 3, The Alpha Bible Class of St. John's Lutheran S. S., and also the occasion of Mrs. Scott's birthday. The members of the class and their families assembled on the beautiful lawn where a large table laden with good things was in waiting and after the invocation by Rev. Hauser, all fell to work to satisfy the inner man. It was a feast fit for a king as all testified by their action. After the feast games were played until the hour arrived when all good children retire when one by one or more took their departure feeling it was good to have been there. This very active class is taught by Mr. E. A. Tobias, who was unable to meet with the class, since he is engaged in teaching at Houtzdale. Mrs. Scott was presented with a beautiful hand bag by the class. There were 69 present.

Mr. Gompers in discussing Mr. La Follette as presidential timber said of him, "he is a great American."

Is Mr. Gompers joking or does he put the halo of fame on any man who opposed with every talent at his command our entry into the war against Germany after she had drowned our women and children and insulted our nation?

There were a few misguided and mentally warped individuals who opposed our entry into the war and obstructed the successful carrying on of the conflict, resulting in unnecessary losses among our boys, who can be excused because they knew no better.

There are others, both in national life and among our neighbors, who had the talent and the means to help in that gigantic struggle who failed in their duty to the flag and to the boys who wore the colors.

No true soldier will ride into public office on his military record. No citizen has a right to capitalize politically on his war work behind the lines. It is assumed that these were duties owed their country by every citizen.

It is just as true that the man who failed in this crucial test of love of country at a time when there was something for every man to do has no right to ask any favors from his countrymen.

Some there are who believe that the war is over and all should be forgotten; a beautiful but demoralizing thought.

La Follette is not alone. There are others with an ear close to the political chatter and an eye fastened on public office.

They cannot get away from their record. Let them think well the consequences before they invite criticism, and not be deluded by La Follette's big majority in his home district, which was ever a hotbed of "kultur" admirers.

The Postoffice Department of the United States is asking the patrons of the Clearfield Postoffice to urge upon those who are qualified that they file applications for the position of postmaster. Up to this time no one has intimated that they desire to get this appointment which pays an annual salary of over three thousand dollars.

This is a peculiar situation and there must be a reason for there being no applicants for a position which pays such a handsome salary.

And there is. Postmaster Tobias sized the situation up just about right when he said that life was too short for a man to waste night and day hours trying to do the impossible with the help and accessories at hand.

There have been so many failures as postmasters in this city that those who are qualified to handle such a job if given the necessary help and equipment hesitate to put themselves in a helpless position before their townspeople.

What is required first is an assurance from the Postoffice Department that the new postmaster will be given a chance to make good and there will be applicants aplenty.

KITCHEN VICTORY

That fragrant steaming that drifts in from the kitchen is beginning now to permeate the entire house, and the wise and immediate relatives of the busy, flushed and tired housewife have not a word to say.

It is one of those expectant times, when a hush seems to settle everywhere, and nobody feels like starting the phonograph, and nobody quite dares to ask when supper will be ready.

But it is ready, after awhile, and the star number on the program is a peach cobbler. There are some peach preserves, still warm, and the members of the family silently reflect that there were sliced peaches for breakfast, a peach pie for the noon meal, and every time the baby asked for a piece between meals he was given a peach and told to run outdoors and play.

One of the great gustatory victories of the year has just been won. The peaches have been canned.

Out on the kitchen table they stand—those two dozen quarts of peaches, in a double row, handsome little soldiers, ready to be marched off to pantry or to fruit cellar. Think of winter days, when the lights will have to be lit before the evening meal!

Current Business Conditions

By GEORGE E. ROBERTS

(From the Monthly Bulletin for September Issued by The National City Bank of New York)

THE good crops are an outstanding feature in the business situation. Corn has been hurt in some states by drought, but the yield on the whole is a good one, and the other grains have done well. All food stuffs are in abundant supply. The farmer has done his work faithfully, and will feed the town populations during the coming year at as low a price level as in the past year, and it may be a little lower.

The cotton crop again faces below the amount required for a year's consumption, owing to drought and boll weevil. The carry over August 1, 1921, was over 95,000,000 bales, and August 1, 1922, was only about one-half that amount. Even if world consumption is no greater in the coming year than in the last, stocks will be very low before another crop is made. All textile goods seem likely to be higher.

Steel Industry Wage Advance

The most notable development in the labor market since the depression began has been the advance of 20 per cent. in the wages of common day labor announced by the United States Steel Corporation. It took the other steel companies. It took the country by surprise, and may be taken as proof that involuntary unemployment for the present at least is at an end.

The explanation is that the steel industry during the war was largely devoted to the war. In some line, equipment and construction fell behind the needs of the country, and had the general slump in business in 1921 cut down the production of iron and steel, there was shortage was made good. This has been particularly true of railroad iron. The demand has been increasing steadily, and the steel industry has been working at a high level of production. The steel industry has been a great success story, and it is a great relief to the country.

Strike of Railroad Shopmen

The strike of railroad shopmen is a great relief to the country. The railroad industry has been a great success story, and it is a great relief to the country. The railroad industry has been a great success story, and it is a great relief to the country. The railroad industry has been a great success story, and it is a great relief to the country.

LEADS IN HOME OWNERSHIP

According to Population, Canada is at the Head of All Nations in That Respect.

Canada has a larger percentage of home owners in its population than any other nation, according to recently compiled figures of the census department.

London, Ontario, leads among Canadian cities with 80 per cent of its inhabitants owning their own homes. Hamilton and Calgary have 60 per cent, home owners, Toronto 55 per cent, Halifax 51 per cent, Vancouver 45 per cent, Edmonton 45 per cent, Winnipeg 44 per cent, Ottawa 40 per cent, Montreal 35 per cent.

Montreal, the largest city in Canada, falls down the general average to 35 per cent. for the ten cities. Taking into consideration the country districts, it is believed by the census experts that nearly 50 per cent of the people of Canada own their own homes. Canada is a land of farm owners where the tenant farmer is almost unknown.

The ten cities covered by the figures range in number of residences from 9,000 to 134,000. Of 72 cities in the United States with a population of 100,000 or more, only two, Des Moines and Grand Rapids, it is declared, have a 50 per cent population of home owners. Des Moines tops the list with 51.1 per cent while Grand Rapids has only a shade fewer. Recent government statistics in the United States show that 45.6 per cent of the people of the United States own their own homes and 54.4 per cent live in rented quarters.

GOT VERIFICATION FROM DAD

Small Boy Satisfied That Malachy Was Right About the Steering Gear of Bulldozers.

An eminent college professor is the father of a small boy who is very observant and inquisitive, and is the employer of a man who has much Irish wit and humor.

One day Alfred, the small boy, was playing with a cat in the stable while Malachy cleaned the harness.

"Say, Malachy," the child asked, "why do cats always land on their feet?"

"They steer themselves wid their tail,"

"Well, how do rabbits steer themselves? They haven't long tails, only a stub."

"Wid their ears; that's the phant they have their long ears for."

"How does a bulldog steer himself? He doesn't have long ears or a long tail."

"Wid his hank."

At this the boy looked doubtful. Presently he ran to his father's study, and in a few minutes came back to the stable.

"Malachy!"

"Yes?"

"That's true what you told me about bulldogs. I asked papa, and he read something to mother out of a book about 'barks' that steer against the wind."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Unexpected Candor.

My most embarrassing moment occurred one day last winter. I was attending a church bazaar with a friend of whom I was very fond. All went well until we came to the pillow booth, where I made my horrible break. Quite confidentially I told her: "Now, some of those pillows aren't so bad looking, and some of them are really quite good looking, but did you ever in your life see one in as poor taste as that?"

My friend looked at me queerly for a moment and then said: "I'll admit it is in poor taste, but, then, you see, I am rather noted for my lack of taste, and I made that."

I made a hasty exit, and have not since had the courage to face her, though she insists on considering it a joke.—Chicago Tribune.

Effect of War Against Disease.

The effect of successful war against disease and death is to make life better worth living. There is no doubt that whole cities and even countries have lived at a low physical level of well-being. Settlers in malarial districts of the United States are pertinent examples. For their life was a sad affair. Low death and sickness rates signify a more exuberant vitality, and more general enjoyment of life. The possibilities in a nation which really enjoys life are limitless.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Double Cylinder Air Motor.

An air motor, on the order of those used in pneumatic tools, but of such extreme compactness that it is no bigger than a safety-match box, weighs only three ounces, and yet develops over half a horsepower, was an outstanding feature of a recent model exposition at Dublin, Ireland. The motor, illustrated and described in Popular Mechanics Magazine, is double-acting, with two opposed cylinders of three-quarter-inch bore and stroke, and runs on compressed air at 100 to 300 pounds pressure.

Bottled Fresh Air for City.

With summer all minds turn toward vacations, and seek new scenes and cooler airs than the city affords. A German savant is said to have found the means of procuring pure mountain air inclosed in earthen tubes for home folks. An English savant is said to have discovered the means of conveying sea breezes to city homes. All this is very nice, but to complete these inventions a third savant would have to find the means of offering in the domestic the joys of open air!

Mrs. Geo. Evans and two children Harold and Florence, are spending the week end with relatives in La-Jose.

False Claim, We Think.
"A new word, 'peptinism,' has been coined by the Virginia Polytechnic Institute," says the Atlanta Constitution. Oh, indeed! We used the word on this page over a year ago—Boston Transcript.

"Invisible" Inks.

The following are said to be good "invisible" inks, which may be made visible in the same manner by means of heat: Lemon juice; a weak solution of nitrate of copper; a concentrated solution of caustic potash; a weak solution of chloride of nickel and nitrate of nickel; and a weak solution of nitrate of mercury.

Modern Children.

In describing the children who had moved in next door little Helene said: "They're not troublesome children; they don't do anything you tell them not to do, but they do everything you don't say anything about."

Advant of the Piano.

"The Beggar's Opera" fixes the date of the first use in public of the piano. At a performance in 1767 a Miss Buckler sang from "Judith," accompanied on a new instrument called the pianoforte.

Ancient Calendars.
The Egyptian calendar was instituted about the year 2782 B. C., and the Chinese about 2637 B. C.

COAL MINING

Has become the most important industry of Clearfield and Centre Counties. It stopped for five months because of a dispute between operators' association and miners' union. No laws defined their rights; no courts could decide them. During the quarrel the miners gradually used up all their savings. Merchants sold less goods and had to give more credit. Both merchant and miner drew down their bank accounts; bankers called in loans, and manufacturers and farmers were pinched. The trouble having been patched up for a few months, by raising coal prices, cement, steel and brick plants are raising prices or reducing production; and hand glass plants claim they must lower wages or shut down. Rising prices for such materials may cause a slump in the building boom like that of 1921.

Mine Workers' leaders wisely incorporated in the strike settlement a fact-finding joint commission. Government officials propose a price-fixing plan, and a railroad car distribution plan; and some Congressmen advocate Federal operation of mines—as if they had learned nothing from the disastrous Federal operation of railroads.

I prefer Theodore Roosevelt's control plan. I desire an Interstate Coal Commission with powers like those which the Interstate Commerce Commission exercises over railroads. [It not only finds facts, but it bases orders on them. It compels safe operation and reasonable rates. Not being a corporation, lawyer, nor backed by a coal operator, I hope to be fair, impartial and businesslike if you send me to Congress.]

SOME SMILES

WHAT WE USUALLY FORGET

"Pretty soft for that man—he doesn't have a thing to worry about."
"Who?"
"That gray-haired gentleman over there. He has all the money he'll ever need."
"Oh! Do you know him?"
"Just by reputation."
"Well, he worked steadily 40 years, day and night, earning his right to rest now."

Worked Both Ways.

Hewitt—You look grim. What's the matter?
Jewett—Matter enough. I gave my wife a ticket to the town where her mother lives for a present.
Hewitt—That was nice.
Jewett—Was it? The confounded ticket was good in either direction and my wife sent it to her mother to come here on and I'm on my way to the train to meet her."

Talent Feared.

"You have not cultivated the arts of oratory?"
"My constituents say they don't want an orator in my place," replied Senator Sorghum. "They're afraid an orator might be our delivering lectures when he ought to be answering mail or keeping tab on the congressional debates."

Sudden Activities.

"I understand there has been a crime wave in Crimson Gulch."
"Nothing of the kind," protested Cactus Joe. "Our beautiful an' growin' city has suffered in reputation simply because our new sheriff got restless an' started diggin' up a lot o' gossip that nobody has been payin' attention to for years."

Interesting Specimen.

"I'm afraid our boy Josh is a lounge lizard," said Farmer Cornosol.
"He ain't," replied Josh's fond mother.
"He's only a plesiosaurus."
"How do you make that out?"
"I happened to see in the dictionary that 'plesiosaurus' means 'near lizard.'"

ADORABLE SCARS

"What a horrid scar George has on his forehead."
"Horrid? The ideal. Why, he got that in a football game."

Legislation.

Our legislature does not pause to heed the speeches long since spoke. It's easier to make new laws than to repair the ones we broke.

Considerate.

Edith—"But why did you become engaged to Jack if you don't intend to marry him?"
Mabel—"Well, poor Jack is very sensitive, and you know it notifies a man much more to be refused than to have the engagement broken."

Previous Training.

"This sawdust evangelist points a glowing picture of nations in the skies."
"I guess that kind of talk is easy for him."
"Eh?"
"He used to sell suburban bungalows"—Birmingham Age Herald.

Real Acting.

"The star put a great deal of fervor into that love scene."
"The leading lady is his wife, too. They've been married four or five years."
"You don't say so? Gosh, that is art."

From Analogy.

Judge (to lady witness)—Married? Witness—Yes, twice.
Judge—Age?
Witness—Twenty-six.
Judge (in undertone to his clerk)—Also twice—Answers.

Back to Normal.

"Things are getting back to normal."
"Eh?"
"A good many of these aesthetic dancers have had to return to burlesque"—Judge.

Leave It to Them.

"A political career ought to bring out what there is in a man."
"If it doesn't," replied Senator Shortworthy. "Usually, it's his nose his enemies are asleep at the switch."

A Hitch.

"The salary is $1000."
"Good."
"The work."
"Hold on. I thought this was a political job."

In the Beauty Parlor

By JOHN PALMER

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

"What, Mrs. Rintoul? Her that used to come in here to have her face massaged pretty nearly every day? Fine looking woman she was, wasn't she? Yes, there's a story about that, and I don't mind telling it you, now, that she's left these parts."

"You remember Freddy Laurie, who married Squire Embree's daughter? Good-hearted fellow he was, but wild, and couldn't resist women. He hadn't been married more than a year before Mrs. Rintoul and he—well, I don't want to speak hard of any one, but it was easy to see how things lay between those two. Fascinated with each other from the start, they were, and poor Mrs. Laurie crying her eyes out in the Laurie place."

"Night after night he'd be seen driving about with Mrs. Rintoul. Freddy wasn't more than thirty, and she must have been forty if she was a day, though she didn't look it. Infatuated they were, but she was more infatuated with him than he was with her, I guess."

"You know when a woman gets to be around forty, all the fires of youth are apt to burn up in her again. Especially if she's been unhappily married, as Mrs. Rintoul had been. She was crazy about him from the first, and it was that that attracted him."

"That was when she began coming in here to have her face massaged. She didn't look forty, but there's no way—no, absolutely no way—in which a woman of forty can look like a girl of twenty-five. They all think they can, though! Mrs. Rintoul looked five years younger than she was, but she had little lines about the corners of her eyes and mouth, she hadn't the firmness of flesh that a young woman has. And the massaging helped some, but it didn't bring back youth."

"Matty was with me then—you remember her? That tall, dark girl who was so good at manicuring. She got friendly with Mrs. Rintoul, and Mrs. Rintoul used to confide in her—most everything, save that she never mentioned Freddy Laurie's name. Then Matty told her about the doctor that made a specialty of taking out wrinkles by operating."

"Of course that's really the only permanent cure. You can massage and massage, but the lines will always come back again unless you take a flap of the loose skin away and tighten the whole face up. That's what Matty advised—and Mrs. Rintoul fell for it."

"Not good business of Matty's? I told her so. I reckoned it cost me ten dollars a week, what with the massage and the hair dressing. Matty was a fool in a way—but anyhow the harm was done."

"Mrs. Rintoul went to Dr. Deering. Called himself a doctor, though I guess he never saw the inside of any medical school. Why, they're not allowed to do operations unless for diseases I've heard. However, he knew his job all right. There's plenty of foolish women in this town he's operated on at two hundred and fifty apiece—and changed their faces so that you'd hardly know they were the same people."

"Mrs. Rintoul went to him, and after that she stayed home for two weeks, waiting for the scars to heal. They make the cuts under the hair, you know. Matty went up to the house to see her while she was convalescing and the report she brought back was perfectly startling. She said Mrs. Rintoul hadn't a line in her face—just as smooth as a baby's. Lord, what some women will do when they're infatuated with a man!"

"The day came when she was out. Of course Freddy Laurie didn't know what she'd been doing. He thought she was ill with grippe, and every day he was around there with flowers—and poor Mrs. Laurie crying up at the Laurie place."

"It was Mrs. Rintoul's maid told Matty what happened when they met. Young Laurie stared at her as if she'd turned black. 'I didn't seem to recognize you somehow,' the maid heard him say. That was all—just that. And Mrs. Rintoul turned as white as a ghost, and soon after Mr. Laurie came away."

"They met once or twice after that, but their lovemaking was at an end. When I saw Mrs. Rintoul I saw what had happened. You see, before the operation she'd been a sweet-looking woman. After it—well, everything was different—her with her smooth baby face and her mature figure. She was a woman of thirty-five just the same—nothing could alter that; but her face—didn't fit."

"So I don't advise my customers to have anything to do with Dr. Deering."

A Profitable Rug.

A physician was walking up Broad way when he saw a dentist friend looking at some shirts in a show window. Just then a panhandler stepped up to the dentist and began to unravel a hard luck story. To the physician's astonishment the dentist lifted his hand to his ear and said, raising his voice considerably:

"How's that? You'll have to speak louder. I'm hard-of-hearing." The panhandler hurried away, grumbling to himself. The physician walked up and laid his hand on the dentist's shoulder. "Jim," he said, "you seem to have ear trouble."

"No, perfectly normal," was the reply. "But that chap was a professional, and 'playing deaf' is the best way I know to get rid of that kind."

FORMER GOSHEN GIRL DIES

Deatolia Ethel Shirey, a former Goshen township resident, died at the Stanford Hospital in California on Thursday, August 31st, and her remains will be brought here for burial.

Miss Shirey was born in Goshen township September 24, 1876, and spent the past sixteen years in California. She was a graduate of Lock Haven Normal, also of the Berkeley, California, University.

The body is expected to arrive in Clearfield on Sunday and will be taken to the home of her aunt, Mrs. Edith Hipps, on Walnut street. Funeral services will be held at Goshen M. E. church on Monday, with interment in Goshen cemetery.

Monkeys Cleanly Animals.
Monkeys, in their wild state, are very clean animals, and explorers who have visited their forest homes, and observed their habits, report that they have often seen these animals drinking water into their faces, and having a good wash very much as mankind does, of course, without the soap!

Dangerous Method.

"What are your usual modes of punishment?" was among the questions submitted to a teacher in a rural district in Ohio. Her answer was, "I try moral suasion first, and if that does not work I use capital punishment." As it was a neighborhood where moral suasion had not been a success and the children were scarce, the committee took no risks.

Whence Alfalfa Came.

Alfalfa is really a Spanish name for the Medicago Sativa, to give it its full botanical name. It is also known as Spanish trefoil. It may be termed one of the old timers on this continent as it was brought over to this country by the early Spaniards. It took very kindly to its new home and now is known and valued as fodder in many parts of Canada and the United States.

Shellfish Probably First.

Shellfish are older than man. They lived upon the earth many years, perhaps thousands of centuries, before the first man or the first ape that looked like a man came to live upon our sphere.

WAR RECORDS OF GRANDDADS

Mrs. Edward W. Burt of North Carolina Working on Hereditary Society Plan.

"Granddad, what did you do during the war?" will be the special query of the young Americans of the next generation that Mrs. Edward W. Burt of Salisbury, N. C., has set herself out to answer. Mrs. Burt is chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary committee to perpetuate the organization in a hereditary society.

The Auxiliary, in its present make-up, is composed of mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of the members of the American Legion, and of the women of the same status who lost men in the World war. There is no junior society to the Auxiliary or to the Legion, such as there is to other patriotic societies—for instance, the Sons of the Revolution—but when a generation has passed unobscuredly such a society will come into existence. It is to prepare the way for an hereditary society, composed of the daughters and granddaughters of World war veterans, that Mrs. Burt is working. Her plan will include incorporation into the Auxiliary records of the war records of the Legion men, so that future genealogists will have no trouble in locating the war records of their granddads.

A veteran of seven wars at forty-eight years of age, Robert Bruce MacGregor of Seattle, Wash., says that his days on the battlefields are forever over and that he expects to devote the remaining years of his life to peaceful activities.

Mr. MacGregor served in the World war with the original 100th Cavalary Regiment, which numbered 1,093 men in 1914. Eleven of that 1,093 are now alive and only two of the eleven can walk. Mr. MacGregor is one of the two.

He fought in the Philippines during the Spanish-American war, in China during the Boxer rebellion, in South Africa during the Natal rebellion, the Matabele uprising and the Jameson raid. Twelve medals, four decorations and wounds which keep him constantly under the doctor's care constitute his spoils.

Although Mr. MacGregor has left the battlefield, he believes that there are peacetime battles to be fought. He has been fighting unemployment. In Seattle in behalf of the American Legion for a number of months. He recently landed jobs for 36 former soldiers. More than that, he has adopted and is educating a fifteen-year-old boy.

DESIGNS THE LEGION POSTER

Drawing by Clarence Reeder, Newspaper Artist, Advertised the Big Meet at New Orleans.

Nineteen New Orleans artists competed in a contest for a poster to advertise the American Legion national convention, but a former "top sergeant" won the prize of $100.

Clarence Reeder, staff artist of a New Orleans newspaper, who drilled rookies at Camp Pike during the World war, drew the winning poster.

The successful design represents a doughboy, a sailor and a marine in uniform, looking at a guidebook labeled "New Orleans, the Paris of the U. S. A." with a view of the famous French quarter below. Above the three figures are the Legion emblem and the words, "Oh, buddy, let's go," and below, "American Legion National Convention at New Orleans, October 16-20."

Forty thousand copies of the poster will be sent to all Legion posts and will be on display in railroad stations in many parts of the country.

Boycott Them.
"Now, children," beamed the Sunday school teacher, "who can suggest the lesson we are taught by the downfall of Samson? Very well, George." "Don't patronize women hairbers, ma'am."—American Legion Weekly.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.) Copyright 1922 Western Newspaper Union.

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 10

TEACHING THE LAW OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Neh. 8:1-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—Touch mine, O Lord, the way of thy statutes, and I shall keep it unto the end.—Ps. 119:32.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—Deut. 6:4-9. Acts 17:14, 16-18. 1 Cor. 13:1-13.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Joy of Learning God's Word.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How a Whole City Heard God's Word.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Power of the Word of God.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Community Bible Study.

It will be of interest and profit to present this lesson by an ideal Sunday school class:

1. A Model Bible Class (vv. 1-6). The people gathered themselves together and "spoke unto Ezra to bring the book of the Law." It was not a matter of the teacher urging the class to come together, but the class with yearning hearts requesting the teacher to come with God's Word.

2. The Representative Assembly (vv. 7-12). The class was made up of men, women and children. Then did not leave the church-going to the women. Neither were the children left at home with nurses or to play in the streets. God's Word should be taught to all classes, men, women and children.

3. An Appreciative Assembly (vv. 13-18). Their ears were attentive from morning to midday. So eager were they to know God's Word that they did not get tired although the lesson lasted for five or six hours. There was no pulling of watches in that class.

4. Due Reverence Shown God's Word (vv. 4, 5). When Ezra opened the Law all the people stood up. This they did out of respect for the holy book. The reason there is not proper reverence for the Bible is that people are not taught to believe it is God's Word. Reverence in the house of God will only be when the Bible is regarded as God's very words.

5. They Joined Heartily in the Prayer (v. 6). As Ezra led them in prayer the people joined heartily in saying "Amen! Amen!" bowing their faces to the ground.

11. A Model Bible Teacher (vv. 7, 8). 1. He Stood Up Where the People Could See Him (v. 5). The position and bearing of the teacher has much to do with the attention and interest of the class.

2. He Read Distinctly (v. 8). Teachers should take particular heed to this. Much Bible reading is greatly to the discredit of the Word and the reader.

3. Caused the People to Understand the Reading (v. 8). The supreme business of the teacher is to make the Word of God so plain that all, old and young, can understand.

11. The Impressions Made (vv. 9-18).

The effect of teaching God's Word is most important. If this class it was very encouraging.

1. Conviction of Sin (v. 9). The Word of God brings conviction of sin (Acts 2:37). It is quick and powerful (Heb. 4:12). The way to get conviction of sin is by teaching the Word of God, not by appealing to the emotions by telling death-bed stories. The people had real cause for sorrow—they were far from God. They not only had become worldly and the rich were in their greed oppressing the poor, but they were perplexed through their mixed marriages.

2. Weeping Turned Into Joy (vv. 10-12). When they had been convicted and confessed God would not have His children to be sad. Continued mourning will not atone for the sins that are past. It unites one for present tasks and labors, pardoning God. Besides, joy has a salutary effect upon one's entire being.

3. Shared Their Blessings With Others (vv. 10-12). Christianity is not having a good time alone; it is sharing our prosperity with others. True joy manifests itself in giving to others. Pure religion goes out to minister to the poor (Jas. 1:27).

4. The People Obeyed (vv. 13-18). In their acquaintance with the Scriptures they found that the Feast of Tabernacles had been long neglected. As soon as they understood the Scriptures they went forth to do as they had been told. They went to work and kept this sacred feast in a way that it had not been kept since the days of Joshua (v. 17). If the Scriptures were read and made plain many things could be found which have not been complied with. In the keeping of this feast they dwelt in booths, thus typifying their pilgrim character and bringing to their remembrance the days of their wilderness journey.

Arsenic Not Fatal to Birds.

Investigations by government scientists show that the spraying of trees with preparations of arsenic to eliminate the gypsy moth is not necessarily fatal to birds. The scarcity of birds in regions where much spraying is done can be explained by the fact that the spraying diminishes the supply of insect food and the birds are obliged to seek it elsewhere.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

Miss Pearl Rafferty, who spent the week at Akron, O., with relatives and friends, returned home to Curwensville today.

Eli Hile, one of the staid and substantial citizens of Lumber City, was a Curwensville business visitor yesterday. He has been a resident of that section all of the 77 years of his life, and is authority on the early history of that bustling little village. He is a younger brother of David Hile of this place.

The first day of the great Dollar Day sale has passed into history. There were not a great many people in town during the day or evening, which was hardly expected by the merchants. They were banking on today's sales as a compensation for their offering goods at a sacrifice sale. The people in the rural sections were too busy threshing out grain and cutting off corn to come in until Saturday.

The contractors on the State Highway over on the South Side made reasonably good headway with the work the last few days. The roadbed is down as far on the stretch as the school house. A few more days of good weather the road ought to be finished as far as the Anderson creek bridge.

Rex Caldwell, youngest son of the late Isaac Caldwell, wife and two children, who have been residing at Wayne, Illinois, for some years, arrived in Curwensville Thursday and are the guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Myers, South Side. They expect to remain in this vicinity in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Lafferty and Mrs. H. J. Weigle, of Westchester Pa., were town visitors yesterday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Dale, on North Walnut street. Both ladies were at one time school teachers in this borough. Both have many friends in this vicinity.

A number of Methodist ladies took their lunch baskets yesterday afternoon and hid themselves out to Irwin Park, eating their evening lunch and enjoying the moonlit evening.

Boy babies seem to be the prevailing rage in this vicinity of late. Last Friday one was born in the home of John Marisky and another one on Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Taylor, on South Side.

The W. C. T. U. convention ended yesterday evening. As The Progress representative was promised a report of the proceedings and did not get it, he will not attempt to make a report of the event.

The greater majority of Curwensville citizens are interested more or less in the progress of our public schools. By courtesy of Prof. Grant Norris, The Progress is able to give the following favorable report of the first week's proceedings:

Our schools opened on Tuesday of this week with a larger enrollment than the enrollment of the first week last year. The High School enrollment is larger now than it was during the entire term last year. There were enrolled 21 Seniors, 26 Juniors, 28 Sophomores, and 57 Freshmen, making a total of 132. It was found necessary to make two divisions of the Freshman class. This put double work on the High School faculty. The school board is perfectly willing to employ another teacher, but there is no class room for him to work in if he were employed. At present the study hall is being used for class recitation purposes.

But the Junior High School is worse off than the Senior High. One hundred thirty pupils are enrolled in the Junior High with but two rooms. This gives each teacher 65 pupils to take care of. When it is known that the conditions in the rooms will not accommodate this number, and it is known, and no place to put them, will some one tell the school board what to do? Here are three rooms, but with only two small rooms to place them. Certainly something should be done to relieve this condition.

The elementary rooms are crowded, in some places, just as much. One room has on its roll 79 pupils. This condition can be relieved to some extent by sending pupils to the South Side, but the parents and pupils object. Prof. Norris has been trying all week to relieve congested conditions in the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades in the Patton and Locust street buildings, but the parents and pupils are set against it. Prof. Norris wants some one to tell him where to send the pupils, or how the enrollment can be equalized when everybody, except those who stay, object.

The "Annex" was opened up this week on the South Side with an enrollment of 41, and there are more who should go there if they would. The total enrollment of the grades is 722, making a total of 854 enrolled to date.

At the regular meeting of the school board last night it was decided to increase the indebtedness of the borough sufficiently to build adequate school facilities for next year. Attorney R. D. Swoope was instructed to get the bond issue on the November ballot and ask the citizenry of Curwensville to authorize a bond issue of 7 per cent. on the assessed valuation of the property in Curwensville. This movement should be kept going until realized.

The athletic association is getting down to business, and the football boys are practicing hard for their first game here in Curwensville. Prof. James Black of Oshanter is doing good work in coaching the boys. He

Mrs. James Davis of Krebs visited relatives and friends here Thursday.

A fine boy baby arrived Friday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Stewart of Mineral Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed Barger entertained a number of friends at a corn roast held on the lawn of their home on High street last evening, and all had a delightful time.

J. M. Baker and family are spending the day with relatives in DuBois.

Family Portraits.
There is a beautiful home on Lombard that the owners wished to leave at the summer. Two parvenus with social ambition thought this residence might be the means of launching them into local society, so they went to look it over. Upon entering the boudoir of a young woman member of the family, their eyes fell upon a beautiful Madonna on the wall. They also observed a Beatrice. One of the party said, "Well, if we do take the house will you please remove the family portraits?"—Judge.

Day of Joy at Hand.
In spite of the rain that had been pelting down most of the day, Jimmy had seemed to be in unusually good spirits. When asked the cause of his beaming countenance, the youngster rattled his little bank and replied: "Daddy said I was saving my pennies for a rainy day; now it's raining and I kin spend 'em."

AMUSEMENTS

RICHARDS

Do you believe in ghosts? Are you afraid of spooks? Do you revel in the weird and uncanny? Strange things appear, disappear and re-appear in the most amazing manner imaginable, wonderful flowers and phantom Princesses spring up from nowhere, people float about on air and young ladies vanish before your very eyes, but such are the wonderful performances given by Richards, "The Wizard" and his excellent company, who open a three nights' engagement at the Driggs theatre.

Mr. Richards comes here with the entire original production exactly as presented during his record-breaking tour of America's leading cities, where both press and public have acclaimed him the greatest magician of recent years. Kidnapped when a child by Mohammedan religious fanatics, while with his parents in India, Richards was taught and given an insight into the ancient Yogi philosophy, known to but one man in millions, and thus he brings to the American theatre the most amazing performance of modern times. Besides many tense, thrilling mysteries, there is a most pleasing variety of clean comedy, new music, novelties, and splendor, with elaborate costumes and lighting effects, which all go to make up the greatest production of its kind ever witnessed in a local theatre.—Adv.

OUR SCHOOL SUPPLIES ARE MAKING A BIG HIT

The kiddies are finding that this store has everything for them now that they have spent the first couple of days in school. They find that the things that they desire, and that the school board does not furnish, are here in plenty in such variety that they get just what they were looking for.

Have the kiddies come here for those things that they must have to make their school work better and their hearts more at rest while they work.

Always Active.
It is known that every particle of earth is in a state of constant activity. Nature abhors stagnation as she abhors vacuum. Even the stagnant, muddy pool of water generates various forms of life. Every particle of what we call a stone has a chemistry that is ever changing form. No matter how infinitesimal the infinitesimals of the combined elements of our sphere not one is in the same place today that it knew yesterday. Every hour, every moment experiences change.

French "Reign of Terror."
That period of the French revolution known as the reign of terror is generally considered to have extended from January 21, 1793, the date of the execution of Louis XVI, to July 28, 1794, when Robespierre and other sanguinary leaders were guillotined.

WILLIAM SOMERVILLE CALLED BY DEATH

William Somerville, a resident of this community for the past nineteen years, died at his home in Lawrence township, on Thursday, Sept. 7th, 1922. The deceased was born in Cambria county on November 4th, 1865, and was therefore in his 57th year. He followed farming all his life, residing at East Ridge in Burnside township until 1903 when he came to his late home in Lawrence township, just beyond the Clearfield borough line.

William Somerville was an upright, industrious man and enjoyed the unbounded respect and esteem of a wide circle of friends. He served as postmaster at East Ridge, now Westover, R. D., from 1865 to 1874.

On April 7th, 1882, he was united in marriage with Mary Dunlap and to this union were born three children. He is survived by his widow, one son and one daughter, William S. Somerville of Lawrence township, and Mrs. C. A. Simler of Philipsburg, one daughter, Virginia, dying in infancy. One grandson also survives.

Funeral services will be held from his late home on Monday morning at 9 o'clock and the remains will be taken to East Ridge cemetery for interment.

MISS COLUMBUS IS NOW "MISS AMERICA"

Atlantic City, Sept. 9.—A sad little girl bit her lips hard but unsuccessfully to hold back the tears early today as she was stripped of her diadem as "Miss America" and saw it placed on the shapely head of another. Miss Mary Gorman, aged 17, of Washington, D. C., lost the crown; Miss Mary Campbell, aged 16, of Columbus, Ohio, won it. The award was made after midnight on one of the great piers in the presence of thousands of patrons.

Foods Rich in Proteids.
The reason why all forms of meat, cheese and eggs form so satisfying a diet is not because they are rich in calories but because they are rich in proteid. In order to be properly nourished, one may paraphrase the famous proverb, "Take care of the pence and the pounds will take care of themselves," and make it read, "Take care of the proteid and the calories will take care of themselves."

Brooklyn Navy Yard.
The Brooklyn navy yard was established February 23, 1861, when the first land, twenty-three acres, was bought from one John Jackson for $40,000. The yard now comprises 140 acres and has a water front of nearly three miles, protected by a sea wall of granite.

The German government has for years fixed the retail price of drugs even to the extent of designating who must be charged for bottle, cork, label or ointment box used in dispensing the medicine.

Embalmed Bodies as Medicine.
Six or seven hundred years ago our doctors held firmly to the belief that there was great medicinal value in ground mummies, and many a nasty dose given ailing youngsters contained a bit of the embalmed body of a man or woman who may have known Joseph, or seen the miracles of Moses.

FORDSON REDUCES HANDLING COSTS

Handling is the greatest labor cost any industry has to deal with. This is true no matter how large or small it may be or what its character is. It applies equally from the greatest manufacturing plant to the smallest industry. It is as much a fact on the farm as in the factory. Therefore anything that cuts handling costs cuts the greatest expense of production and is greatly needed by practically every concern to successfully meet with the changed conditions which all businesses are experiencing.

The Fordson adapted for haulage purposes through the use of W. & K. rubber tired wheels meets this need. It is cutting handling costs in hundreds of places today. It has proven its ability to do more hauling at less cost in widely varied lines of work. Its sturdy construction, its great power, its wide adaptability to hauling requirements, its unusually low cost, makes it the most profitable investment when properly applied to the thousands of handling and transportation problems.

W. & K. rubber tired wheels are equipped with Standard S. A. E. tires ready to serve at any tire station. W. & K. extension rims, with extension cleats, have been developed for use with the solid tired wheels to meet certain traction conditions.

This equipment is manufactured by the Whitehead and Kales Manufacturing Co. of Detroit, Mich., and will be on exhibition at the Fordson Tractor Industrial expo which will be held at Pittsburgh during the week of Sept. 11-15, where all interested in this valuable equipment may see it in operation. Distribution is handled through West Penn Body Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., and H. R. Hooper Co., Youngstown, O. The retail end being handled by the local authorized Ford dealer.

Her Own Business.
The charming young woman who expected to be married soon, went to the registration book for the first time. The man in charge asked: "With what party do you expect to be affiliated?" "That's none of your business," she replied. "If I have to tell his name I'm not going to register, so there."

Doctors and Drugs.
A large number of physicians are themselves addicted to the use of morphine. This is no wonder, considering the strenuous life they lead, and the fact that they are continually handling the drug. Conscientious physicians have for some time past refused to administer it, but then, what was the use, while there were so many others willing to do so?

Operation Avoided by Taking
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dayton, Ohio.—"I had such pains that I had to be turned in bed every time I wished to move. They said an operation was necessary. My mother would keep saying: 'Why don't you take Pinkham's, Henrietta?' and I'd say, 'Oh, mamma, I won't help me, I've tried too much.' One day she said, 'Let me get you one bottle of each kind. You won't be out very much if you will believe me or not, but I only took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine when I began to get relief and I am regular ever since without a pain or a headache.' When I lie down I can get up without help and without pain. KEEP THE KIDDIES HUSKY AND THEY WILL HAVE BETTER SCHOOL MARKS

Your kiddies have started the grind of the school year and they are going to begin using up that store of vitality that they gathered during the summer months. They are going to need a food that is not only a pleasure to consume but that will build up muscle and brain.

Give them all of our milk that they will drink and you'll find that their report marks will stay where you want them to stay and that they will stand the grind of the hard study better from a physical standpoint.

BILL'S WATCH REPAIRING IS MAKING A BIG HIT

Hardly a day passes but what someone comes in to tell us how well their watch or clock is running after we have repaired it for them.

We give the slightest repair job the best attention and the ordinary watch or clock get as much work on it as the most expensive. We have a way of making them run as they should and they keep the time that the makers intended and you would like to have.

If your watch is not giving you the satisfaction that it should, bring it in and let us have a look at it and we will make it run and run as it should.
